Cold War G.I. Measure Is Approved By House

Senate Is Expected To Pass Bill Quickly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House rammed to passage today a new G.I. bill of rights carrying school and housing aid for veterans not only of the Viet Nam fighting but "perpetual" cold war conditions.

The bill, with a first year price tag of $335 million and a five-year estimated cost of $2.1 billion, was expected to be approved quickly by the Senate, which passed its own more expensive version last year.

The prospect was that the measure would become the first major new program approved by the second session of the 89th Congress.

The program, patterned after earlier legislation providing housing and education for World War II and Korea veterans, would extend school benefits ranging from $3,600 to $5,400 to eligible ex-servicemen. It also would provide them home loan guarantees, limited hospital rights federal job preference, employment counseling and a presumption of service connection in some cases of chronic or tropical diseases.

The measure rode to enthusiastic passage on the eagerness of members to "do something for the boys" in Viet Nam. However, it would apply not only to them but all men in service, now, in the future, or at any time since Jan. 31, 1955, except for those enrolling under a six-months training program as recruits for the military reserve.

Pincers Close On Red Force In Viet Valley

Bombers Hit Base At Dien Bien Phu In North Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. cavalrymen and Marines and South Vietnamese troops swept into An Lao Valley tonight, seizing territory held by the Communists since 1954. The Allied force met only sporadic resistance.

The joint maneuver came after a dramatic link-up of U.S. Marines and First Air Cavalry Division troops 18 miles north of Bong Son on the central coastal plains 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

The operation was launched in hopes of trapping a large force of North Vietnamese regulars and hard-core Viet Cong. But by nightfall, the U.S. and South Vietnamese made no major contact.

The Marines came into the valley in helicopters while the cavalry troops came down rough slopes to establish camps on the valley floor.

SEARCHED AREA

While the cavalrymen searched the area to no avail, the Marines set up a security perimeter for the night.

One cavalry battalion captured 14 Viet Cong and a few weapons in a brief firefight in the eastern hills of the valley. On the western slopes another battalion wounded and captured a lone Communist guerrilla.

The Marines and cavalrymen have been closing a net around the An Lao area for the past several days. They linked up during the weekend.

After morning fog and rain cleared up, two brigades of the helicopter-equipped air cavalry drew the assignment of scouring the An Lao Valley. South Vietnamese troops tried to penetrate the valley 15 months ago and failed.

SCATTERED FIRE

Only scattered fire from small arms and automatic weapons came from the Communists at the onset. One Viet Cong was reported killed and 14 captured. Punji stakes, sharpened bamboo poles concealed in the ground, caused some injuries among the American cavalrymen.

The skies cleared late yesterday over North Viet Nam and U.S. Air Force jets penetrated

State Legislature Opens On Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California legislators began their 1966 session today, seeking money for the biggest budget in state history without making the people pay more taxes in an election year.

With a booming population crowding schools, prisons and parks, Democratic Gov. Brown is expected to offer a spending bill Wednesday that a legislative source pinpoints at $4.6 billion.

Spending will exceed income by $250 million to $300 million, posing deep political problems for both the governor, running for a third term, and legislators also trying for re-election.

Brown has found a way to raise $246 million of it — $136 million by boosting income taxes. But the increase wouldn't take effect until April 1967, a half year after the general election.

The Senate's president pro tem, Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, and the Assembly's speaker, Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, will be leading their houses again.

But 1966 is the year the old guard changes.

This year's elections will be the first held for reapportioned legislative districts and Northern California will lose control of the Senate. With new seats available in the populous south,

Thant, Paul VI Work For Viet Peace Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Thant and Pope Paul VI were reported working independently today to get nonaligned governments to take an active role in the drive for a Viet Nam peace settlement.

Thant was understood to be seeking neutral help in setting up a conference of eight parties to include the Viet Cong. Others would be Britain, France, the Soviet Union, Red China, the United States, North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam.

The pontiff is trying to organize a summit conference of neutral nations in Geneva to mediate for an end to the war.

Thant has been conferring with envoys of nonaligned states over the past two weeks. He apparently feels the neutrals can overcome the obstacles to

San Rafael Pair Dies In Crash In Sierra

Killed in a two-car traffic crash at Strawberry, El Dorado County, were David S. Lee Jr., 24, and his wife, Margaret Taylor Lee, 21, of 383 Bayview Avenue.

The California Highway Patrol at Placerville reported that Lee, driving east on Highway 50, made a left turn into the Strawberry Garage. His 1966 MG sports car was hit broadside by a westbound auto driven by Mrs. Irene Childers, 42, of Carson City, Nev.

Mrs. Lee was killed outright. Lee was given emergency treatment at Barton Memorial Hospital in Lake Valley, El Dorado County, then transferred to a Reno hospital where he died Saturday night.

All three occupants of the Childers car were injured. Fred Childers, 52, the driver's husband, was injured severely, according to the highway patrol report. Mrs. Childers and their daughter, Linda, 17, suffered bruises. All were taken to Barton Memorial Hospital.

Lee was born in Scotland. The family moved to San Rafael 14 years ago, and he completed schools here. He served three years in the Navy. He was employed by Charles B. Walker Manufacturing Co. in San Francisco.

Besides his parents and daughter, he leaves a brother, James, of San Rafael.

Mrs. Lee was born in Ogden, Utah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emlen Taylor. When she was 18 months old, the family moved to Fairfax, where the parents reside at 61 Taylor Drive.

Mrs. Lee was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School. She was employed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters in San Francisco.

Besides her parents and daughter, she is survived by two brothers, Ronald and Kim Taylor of Fairfax, and a stepbrother, Ray Taylor of San Rafael.

Police Check Continues In Marin Slaying

San Rafael police went back to 19 Carroll Court today to try to reconstruct what happened the night Marjorie S. Rudolph was brutally killed and submerged in a bathtub of water.

Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa said today: "We are going over the whole house again to regroup and consolidate everything we have learned up to now. It will be a long process."

PRINT EXPERT

Inspector Thomas Cheetham and a fingerprint expert, David Vargo, went over the house thoroughly in search of any clues in the slaying of Mrs. Rudolph, 60-year-old wife of bank manager Leroy Rudolph, last Tuesday.

She was found in the bathtub, dead from head and chest wounds "inflicted by a heavy but sharp instrument," said Coroner Frank Keaton.

Chiesa said police had early checked out reports the victim's attacker may have entered the house through a garage door. The door was splintered above and below the catch.

BREAK-IN THEORY

"I hardly think he entered through that way," the chief said. "The damage is more consistent with having been caused by someone knocking the door while carrying a pile of firewood or something. At this stage, we don't really think he got in by breaking through a door."

If the break-in theory falls down, the only alternative is that Mrs. Rudolph knew the killer and let him in herself. Normally, she was cautious about answering the door to strangers while alone, police learned from neighbors.

Jack Frost Drops In On Marin

Marin County had a frosty look about it at dawn today as overnight temperatures dropped to below freezing in many places for the first time in over a week. And it is here to stay for a while.

At Fairfax the mercury dropped to a chilly 25 degrees while at Woodacre it registered 28. In San Anselmo and Belvedere the overnight low was only four degrees above freezing.

Clear but chilly weather is in prospect for Marin County for the rest of the week, says the Weather Bureau.

Forecasters said a strong and large high pressure center was advancing slowly towards the east from a point 1,100 west of San Francisco.

COMBINED AP & UPI

HONOLULU—President Johnson swung into talks today with top leaders of South Viet Nam after taking a stand-and-fight stance in a sharp reply to critics at home.

U. S. officials said civilian programs would be emphasized during the historic strategy conference that winds up tomorrow. However, Johnson and his visitors stressed military determination in public statements.

Bombing in store for the Communists in North Viet Nam and South Viet Nam this motnh will far outstrip the intensity of such U.S. attacks on Red enemies in the Korean War, high U.S. officials said today.

They said the tonnage of bombs planned to be dropped on Communist positions and forces for all of February will total two and one-half times that of any month in the Korean War.

Also, they said, the number of sorties in prospect for February will be 50 per cent higher than in any month of the Korean War.

They cited these details in apparent reply to critics who contend that air operations against North Viet Nam should be bigger and more damaging.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U. S. forces in Southeast Asia, gave newsmen this capsule view yesterday of the forces and strategy now operating in the Viet Nam conflict.

U. S. forces: Approximately 200,000.

South Vietnamese forces: 300,000 regulars and some 260,000 "para-military," which includes various civilian militia.

Communists: 77,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars, more than 100,000 civilian guerrillas and some 17,000 support forces.

He outlined a five-point U. S. military strategy:

1. Defend the major centers of population, such as the capital, Saigon and the provincial cities.

2. Progressively open up communication lines such as roads and railroads.

3. Secure U.S. base complexes.

4. Keep as many as possible of the 200,000 U. S. troops in South Viet Nam mobile so they can seize opportunities to

China Says U.S. Plane Downed

TOKLO (AP) — A pilotless high-altitude reconnaissance military plane was shot down over mainland China today, the New China News Agency said.

NCNA, in a broadcast monitored here, said the unmanned aircraft was downed by a Communist Chinese air unit. It did not eaborate on this point. The brief report did not identify the nationality of the plane, except to say it belonged to "U.S. imperialism."

Earlier, North Viet Nam claimed it shot down a U.S. plane over its territory and captured its pilot.

Indian Airplane Missing With 33

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — An Indian Airlines propjet airliner with 33 passengers and crew of four aboard was reported missing today en route to New Delhi from Srinagar, in the Kashmir Valley.

Airline officials said the twin-engine plane was hours overdue and presumed down. Civil and military aircraft were searching for it.

An airlines spokesman said the passengers were believed to be German, Swedish and Indian nationals.

Young Republicans Pick Refugee

Mike Djordjevich of Daly City won yesterday after a three-way battle with Robert Sprinkel, 30, of Los Angeles, and Jerry Ducote, 36, San Jose.

The 29-year-old insurance executive won when Ducote, a former John Birch Society chapter leader, threw his support to Djordjevich.

The winner also told newsmen at the CYR convention that he favors withdrawal of the United States from the United Nations and supports Ronald Reagan for governor.

Earlier, former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, a GOP candidate for governor, told the convention that the Republican party must shun extremism.

Christopher was booed briefly when he denounced what he called the political extremism of the Birch Society.

Castro Rips Peking For 'Extortion'

The Cuban capital buzzed with speculation about what would be Chinese reaction to the blistering broadside Castro loosed yesterday. Castro accused the Chinese of extortion, blackmail, subversion, aggression, strangulation, hypocrisy, cynicism, deception, dishonesty, disrespect and treason.

BREAK ON WAY

Some diplomats and political experts expected a quick diplomatic break. Others thought China would suspend trade relations, cutting off what much-needed rice Peking is still shipping to Cuba.

Castro lashed out in reply to Chinese charges that he lied when he declared Jan. 2 that Peking had reneged on a sugar-for-rice agreement.

Amplifying his charges, he said Peking had in effect joined the "Yankee imperialist economic blockade" of Cuba by drastically reducing trade ith Havana.

BASIC QUESTION

Asserting the disagreement involved more than rice and sugar, he said: "It is a more important and fundamental question and that is whether in the world of tomorrow the powerful countries can assume the right of blackmail, extortion, pressure, aggression and strangulation of other smaller countries."

Castro capped his attack with charges that Peking sought to subvert Cuba's armed forces by "a massive distribution of propaganda materials in our country."

Six Fires Around Nation Took 25 Lives Yesterday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 25 persons died Sunday in six separate fires around the nation. In Miami, Fla., one blaze took the lives of seven small children and three adults.

About a dozen persons were injured.

Fires in Minneapolis, Minn., and two other Minnesota towns claimed six victims ranging in age from 7 months to 15 years.

A couple and two of their three children perished in Helmetta, N.J., when their wooden ranch-style home went up in flames.

A Chicago fire which broke out in two adjoining three-story hotels on the South Side forced 100 persons from their beds in 23-degree cold. Three persons were hospitalized and three others, including a fireman, received medical aid.

Fire and police officials blamed the Miami blaze — in a 40-year-old building in the city's Negro slum area — on a kerosene stove explosion.

"There was lots of hollering and screaming and people running outside, and it was the screams of the children that got me the most," said Vernon L. Ward, a neighborhood resident.

"The thing I never can forget is one little girl's face at the window screaming 'Momma, save me, momma, save me,'" Ward said.

Police Sgt. Dennis Watkins said Willie Ross, 61, one of the victims, alone in a downstairs rear room, apparently had been drinking and "fooling around with the kerosene heater."

'Dead' Luna Sends Back More Photos

JODRELL BANK, Engand (AP)—British scientists awaited the rising of the moon tonight to determine whether Luna 9 was still sending pictures or its transmitter was dead.

The Soviet spacecraft startled officials at Britain's Jodrell Bank radio observatory last night by sending two complete pictures and part of a third after the Russians announced its mission was fulfilled.

The photos were not as good as earlier ones, and the moon probe's transmitters were down to half strength during the 81-minute broadcast that began at 9:11 p.m.

Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the observatory, theorized that Luna 9's batteries or temperature controls were weakening.

Lovell said he expects the observatory's huge radio telescope to receive signals when the moon appears over the horizon tonight but they may be the last.

Pravda, the only paper published in Moscow this morning, made no reference to the transmission reported last night.

But observers in Moscow pointed out that some other Soviet space devices continued transmitting previously sent material until they ran out of power or passed out of range of the earth.

The Russians said earlier that Luna 9 was an airtight container with built-in power. There was no indication that it had solar batteries which the sun could recharge for extended picture-taking and transmission.

Luna 9 resumed broadcasting yesterday after Soviet authorities said the final radio session had ended at 12:41 p.m. EST Saturday and that "the planned program of lunar research by means of the automatic station Luna 9 has been fulfilled."

Moscow television released a third picture showing a rocky area north of Luna 9 and two sections of the spacecraft itself. A broadcasting official said more photos probably would be shown on television.

Two Soviet Writers' Trial On Smuggling Will Begin

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two writers who smuggled anti-Soviet works to the West for publication will go on trial this week but a third will be allowed to leave the country, informed sources said today.

Valeri Tarsis, author of the best selling novel "Ward Seven," told newsmen he had been granted a Soviet passport and British visa and expected to leave in a few days for England. He will lecture at Leicester University.

The sources said Tarsis expects to take an indefinite sojourn abroad.

Literary critic Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel, a newsman-translator, will go on trial Thursday on charges of "anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda." They face maximum jail terms of seven years.

It was speculated in literary circles here that Soviet authorities allowed Tarsis to leave because Tarsis did not conceal his anti-Soviet activity while Sinyavsky and Daniel acted secretively.

Sinyavsky, a highly respected literary scholar and critic, used the pseudonym of Abram Tertz. He wrote "The Trial Begins," and the "Makepeace Experiment," both satires on Soviet reality.

Daniel, whose foreign alias was Nikolai Arzhak, smuggled a short story "Moscow Calling" to the West. It is a fantasy on what happens when the government declares a "day of murder."

Sinyavsky and Daniel posed as loyal citizens. What they said and wrote for publication under their own names followed the party line.

Fingerprint Center Of Murder Trial

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A state fingerprint expert testified today that a palmprint found on the scene of multimillionaire Jacques Mossler's slaying was lefy by his nephew, Melvin Lane Powers.

Powers, 29, on trial for his life with his blonde aunt, Candace Mossler, widow of the victime, displayed no emotion at the testimony of Thomas J. Spurlock, fingerprint technician for the county sheriff's department.

Spurlock testified he had found the palmprint on the kitchen counter shortly after the June 30, 1964 bludgeon-stabbing of Mossler, 69. The witness said he later compared the print with one he took from Powers.

Asst. State Atty. Gerald Kogan asked Spurlock: "Had it been wiped in any manner?"

"No sir," Spurlock said.

Earlier, Roscoe Brown, Mossler family handyman, testified he scrubbed the counter thoroughly about eight hours before Mossler was slain.

Mrs. Mossler, who lists her age as 39, returned to court for the fourth week of her murder trial. Migraine headaches kept her confined during the weekend to her hotel where she also suffered a fall.

As the trial resumed, Circuit Judge George Schulz permitted the state to read into the record for an all-male jury an eavesdropped conversation involving Mrs. Mossler. The defense argued that this was a violation of her constitutional rights.

The state claims the telephone conversation, monitored by the sheriff's office, was a plea by Candy to the handyman, Brown, on behalf of Powers. In it she asked Brown to change his story to authorities after Powers' arrest, telling him "a man's life is at stake."

Hoffa Proposes One Date For Teamsters' Contracts

DETROIT (AP)— Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa has advocated a common expiration date for all union contracts in each American city and for union contracts in allied industries across the nation.

Hoffa told the 13-state Teamsters Central Conference in Detroit Saturday that such a policy has been discussed with other major unions.

He said the move would make possible massive strikes of the kind that can take place in other nations.

Hoffa did not suggest that every union contract in the United States expire on one date. He also did not specify where he would draw the line on which contracts he felt should not expire on a common date.

However, Hoffa said concerted action will be necessary because of recent decisions of the National Labor Relations Board and the U.S. Supreme Court.

Common expiration dates would allow unions to get away from the danger of being charged with secondary boycotts and would make strikes more effective, he added.

Seven Cars Ransacked At Apartment House

Seven cars were looted in Novato during a weekend which also saw break-ins at three business places in the Sundown Shopping Center and at one elementary school, Novato police reported today.

The cars, all unlocked, were ransacked Saturday night in their parking stalls at an apartment house at 195 Los Robles, across Highway 101 from Hamilton Air Force Base.

The Sundown Shopping Center is just south of the airbase. The Meadow Park School, which also was entered, Saturday night is on the base.

Cars looted were those of Charles B. Telford, Apt. 110, of seat belts valued at $9.60; Charles R. Devereus, Apt. 112, gloves worth $2; Paul H. Dane, of Apt. 111 a $4 flashlight; Charles Sainenon, Apt. 103, tools and jacket valued at $165; Theodore R. Hughes, Apt. 3, radio and sweater valued at $41; Ronald R. Melton, Apt. 9, coat worth $40, and John H. Armistead, Apt. 109, auto accessories valued at $35.

The shopping center burglar left a trail of burned matches and match covers from Nero's Restaurant at Nave Lanes in Novato, police reported. He also cut himself and left a small trail of blood.

The front door of Petty and Kroeger, Inc., masonry contractors at 5486 Redwood Highway, was broken and the place searched, but nothing taken. At Ida's Beauty Salon, 5480 Redwood Highway, entry was by breaking a window. Again, nothing was missing.

The rear door to Pinky's Pizza Parlor, 5460 Redwood Highway, had been hammered in an attempt at entry, police said.

At Meadow Park School two windows were broken and between $3 and $10 in cash was taken reported John Laycock, principal. Morever, keys to the entire school were taken.

There was still another Novato burglary: John A. Coulter, 49, of 10 Washington Street, reported his house was entered between 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday, and $32 in cash was stolen.

The main difficulties are: Communist avowals that the United Nations has no right to deal with Viet Nam; Soviet coolness to British proposals that the two nations, as cochairmen of the Geneva accords on Viet Nam, reconvene the Geneva conferences; apparent unreadiness of the United States to accept the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front at the conference table; and North Viet Nam's recent insistence that the National Liberation Front be the only representative of the South Vietnamese people at any conference.

The U.N. Security Council has agreed to a U.S. request to debate Viet Nam but is delaying the debate while private consultations are held to promote a Geneva conference.

The Soviet Union has asserted the council has no business debating Viet Nam.

Diplomats speculated that if the African members of the 15-nation Security Council put in a substitute resolution implying criticism of U.S. military action in Viet Nam but proposing a settlement, the Soviets might let it pass.

Papal envoys have relayed the pontiff's proposal for a neutral summit meeting to the Swiss and Austrian governments.

The jets also hit a barracks and storage area and destroyed 12 buildings, a spokesman said. Sixty per cent of the military complex at the base was reported knocked out.

BRIDGES HIT

Other Air Force planes hit two bridges, three main highways and storage areas 50 miles west of Thanh Hoa after bad weather limited air action over the North earlier in the day to five combat missions.

Navy jets from the 7th Fleet carriers Ticonderoga and Ranger roamed the North Vietnamese coast, hitting bridges, railways and roads near Vinh and Thanh Hoa. One mission struck Tiger Island, a South China Sea radar installation near the 17th Parallel.

Other planes hit the Lan Tra rail bridge and the Han Thach highway bridge, both considered links in the flow of material to the south.

As the Allies tightened the ring on the central coast, only the hills in the west appeared to offer an escape route for the North Vietnamese 18th Regiment and the Viet Cong's hardcore Second Regiment.

In the An Lao Valley the Flying Horsemen were penetrating a lush, cultivated area that has been a Viet Cong granary for years. It lies about 15 miles from the sea. Government troops lost six armored personnel carriers, two field artillery pieces and other equipment in battle with the Communists there in 1964.

5. Continue air strikes in North Viet Nam, recognizing that these would be only "supplemental" to the main military effort in the South.

Johnson, welcoming the Vietnamese with martial honors last night said the United States must stand firm against Hanoi and the Viet Cong guerrillas or "we will have to fight again some place else — at what cost no one knows."

Nguyen Van Thieu, South Viet Nam's head of state, responded: "Your ords have gone beyond the usual welcoming address, for they told Viet Nam and the world of a renewed and much stronger determination on the part of the United States to draw a line and stop Communist aggression in Viet Nam, and now."

Johnson, in greeting Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky at airport ceremonies, voiced scorn for "special pleaders who counsel retreat in Viet Nam."

"They belong to a group that has always been blind to experience and deaf to hope," Johnson said.

The President argued that it is as important now to resist communism in Viet Nam as it was to oppose it in Europe after World War II.

"Our stand must be as firm as ever," he said.

Thieu was reported determined to argue here for a hardline military policy, includig intensified direct moves against North Viet Nam. He revised his arrival speech en route from Saigon after getting advance word of what Johnson planned to say.

Kesey's Intrepid Bus Disappears Into Coast Fog

EUREKA (AP)—Author Ken Kesey's private van — a 1955 former school bus painted cerise, magenta and chartreuese —has disappeared into the coastal fogs as suddenly as it appeared.

The California Highay Patrol discovered the bus—bearing the name "Intrepid Traveler"—parked beside a country road north of Eureka last Thursday. They decided to wait five days, the usual grace period before checking out apparently abandoned vehicles.

Yesterday it dawned on authorities that the bizarre bus, registered to Ken Kesey, would be the property of author Ken Kesey, who is wanted on a bench warrant in Redwood City.

Kesey, author of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," was sought on a bench warrant after missing a court hearing last week to consider revocation of his $5,500 appeal bail on a marijuana possession conviction.

The Marin Superior Court suit charges negligent driving by Westphal resulted in a collision of vehicles driven by DeMartini and the defendant on Highway 101 in San Francisco county near the Candlestick Park turnoff.

DeMartini suffered neck, head, shoulder and other injuries, the suit charges.

Two Ask To Fill Warburg Vacancy

Supervisors agreed last Tuesday to solicit applications and interview candidates. Warburg filled an at-large position on the commission, meaning that all supervisors have a hand in nominating his successor, who can live anywhere in the county.

more than a dozen assemblymen have announced they will run for the upper house. Senators will battle each other for the remaining northern seats.

Unruh may be one of the assemblymen moving over to the Senate and the possibility he may give up his speakership has spurred a fight over who will succeed him—even though the office won't be vacant until the start of the 1967 session.

The promise of change could produce political scrapping that is likely to affect the course of the session.

Unruh has his own tax program, a proposal to raise the present 4 cents sales tax to 5 cents and bring in $360 million for aid to local school districts.

That could conflict with administration plans to forestall a tax increase until after election year.

TV Sets Removed From Edgewater

Burglars stole three television sets and an overnight bag from rooms at the Edgewater Inn Motel at Madera Boulevard and Highway 101, Corte Madera, Saturday night, police reported. Five television sets were stolen from the motel Wednesday night.

All three sets were discovered missing by tenants returning to their rooms Saturday between 10 and 11:30 p.m. One tenant, Sharon F. Stinson of San Jose, reported the thieves also stole her $65 overnight bag.

Police reported the thieves entered the rooms by breaking off door locks. In one room, the culprits used a bed spread to haul out the television set. In all rooms, they used towels to wipe away fingerprints, police said. The sets are valued at about $100 apiece.

Unruh Withdraws Brown Support

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh today declined to pledge his support to the re-election campaign of Gov. Brown.

At the same time, Unruh told a news conference just prior to the convening of the legislature that he would be "very reluctant" to accept Brown's plans for balancing the 1966-67 state budget unless a one-cent sales tax increase is approved.

Unruh said his previous pledge to support Brown if the governor ran for re-election "was taken out of context" and "is no longer valid."

The Bartons had been en route from Denver to a promised farm job in southern Missouri when the car stopped forever. They were making the move after two months of joblessness in Denver, in addition to a streak of unemployment and other hard luck from Oregon through Arizona.

The Bartons planned to stay in Russell.

$1 Million Donated To College By Man Who Once Lost Fortune

By GENE HANDSAKER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man who says going broke can help you get rich is giving $1 million to Claremont Men's College.

The liberal arts college with 650 students in the nearby community of Claremont made the announcement today. Modestus R. Bauer, 77, Long Beach is the guest of honor at a Board of Trustees luncheon.

After his million dollars builds a new campus administrative headquarters, Bauer Hall, Bauer will still have $19 million.

He made a $950,000 fortune in Chicago real estate and stocks, lost it during the depression, then made an even bigger one.

Bauer says: "If you can survive that greatest financial hazard — going broke — you will be a stronger, bigger, better man. It gives you the ammunition to rise to greater heights."

MODESTUS R. BAUER
Going broke helps

Born in Vincennes, Ind., was reared by his widowed dressmaker mother in Chicago.

There were times, he said, when they went hungry — "and every man shoud know what it's like to be hungry because then it's so nice to have some food."

At 14, Bauer, an only child, went to work. He swept the floor, washed windows and built the fire in a real estate office at $3 a week. At 17 his boss added another duty — selling real estate on commission.

"At 18 I was able to get married. At 21 I had saved approximately $25,000."

He borrowed $35,000 more and, with his real estate boss, opened a bank. In 1920 they sold out and Bauer retired at 31 with $200,000. He invested in the stock market and by 1929 had $950,000 which vanished in the Wall Street crash.

"I began to make money — so much that I dropped out of Englewood High School at the end of my second year," said Bauer.

"I was offered two jobs — $6,000-a-year cashier in a new bank and $3,000-a-year customer's man in a brokerage firm," Bauer said.

"My wife said, 'Stay where you'll be the happiest — in the stock market.' Most women would have said, 'take the $6,000.' But she had that instinct, that woman's intuition. I was a lousy banker anyway. Never could foreclose on anybody."

Bauer is a director of Armour & Co., the Chicago meat-packing firm; a director of worldwide Rheem Manufacturing Co., and a director of the Chicago Eastern Illinois Railroad.

A newspaper advertisement, he said, attracted him to Claremont Men's College's needs for expansion money. The commitment is outright — no proceeds withheld.

"I don't think I've been in church for 50 years," Bauer said, "but I believe there's an accounting between man and fate, and the more you give away, the more you get back."

Bomb Search Area Guarded At Palomares

PALOMARES, Spain (UPI) — U.S. and Spanish authorities today imposed strict security precautions around a seashore area where a search is underway for a missing American nuclear bomb believed lying in about 1,200 feet of water off the southeast coast of Spain.

U.S. airmen and Spanish police armed with sub-machine-guns stood guard on restricted areas at the scene as the search for the missing H-bomb went into its third week.

The increased security measures appeared to be a prelude to the arrival of the "Alvin," a 22-foot miniature two-man submarine with a mechanical claw which was expected to join the search Tuesday.

Salesman Accidentally Shoots Self With .22

James R. Casey, 59, of 10 Kinrose Drive, San Rafael, accidentally shot himself with a .22 caliber revolver Saturday and was listed in fair condition in Marin General Hospital today with a chest wound, police reported.

Casey, a salesman, told police he had recently purchased the gun and had trouble loading a cylinder. He was walking down the hallway at his home when he slipped and the gun discharged as he fell, he said.

Storer Hits Sierra Club Park Request

Marin County Supervisor Thomas Storer called the Sierra Club proposal for a Redwood National Park "ridiculous" in an address Saturday to the First Congressional District Democratic caucus in Ukiah.

Storer, a candidate for the district's Democratic nomination for congressman, told the 100 caucusing Democrats, he would support a park that had the approval of the lumber industry.

Two other potential candidates addressed the gathering, which took no action favoring any particular aspirant. They were state Sen. Frank Petersen (D-Ukiah) and George E. McCabe of Santa Rosa, head of the education department of Sonoma State of College.

Petersen—who said he will probably run and will announce his decision this week—attacked incumbent Republican Congressman Donald H. Clausen for "his votes against medicare and federal aid to local schools."

McCabe—who lost to Clausen in 1964—said he would run if Petersen did not. The educator classified himself with "the doves in the Viet Nam conflict," but added, "You don't have to be a looney bird to be a dove."

West Will Gain Most Population

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Far West will be the nation's fastest growing region during the next decade—as it has been during the past 10 years — the National Planning Association reports.

In a study made public last night, the association said the fastest growing states—10 of them — are Nevada, Arizona, Alaska, California, Hawaii, New Mexico, Colorado and Utah in the West, and Delaware in the East and Florida in the Southeast.

The report says also that, as in the past, employment will also move away from New England, the Middle Atlantic and Great Lakes areas.

Out Of Hospital

Shirley M. Copeland, 39, of 1486 Vistazo West Street, Tiburon, was discharged from Marin General Hospital yesterday after reportedly taking an overdose of medication at 12:30 a.m. Saturday.

Dr. Boehme Convicted Of Attempted Killing

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Dr. Robert E. Boehme, a thrice-married physician, was convicted last night of attempting to kill his wife by giving her an injection.

The formal charge was first-degree assault with intent to kill. It carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

Dr. Boehme's attorney, Frank Peters, said he would move today for a new trial.

In 1962, Dr. Boehme was acquitted of an identical charge involving his second wife, Dorothy. She died three months later of natural causes. Dr. Boehme's first marriage ended in divorce.

Both Dorothy Boehme and the doctor's present wife, Mary, maintained he was innocent. Mrs. Boehme, 33, accompanied her 45-year-old husband to the courtroom last night although Judge Soule had excluded her during the trial after she objected out loud to an opening statement by the prosecution.

When the jury of eight men and four women announced its decision, the attractive brunette broke into tears and buried her head on her husband's shoulder. He put his arm around her and helped her from the room.

The state contended that Dr. Boehme entered his wife's room at a Tacoma hospital last June 30 and injected a toxic substance into her hip. Mrs. Boehme had been hospitalized for treatment of a head injury suffered when a plank fell on her at the family's boathouse the day before.

The doctor testified he injected Mrs. Boehme with an antidote for a tranquilizer, fearing she had taken an overdose. He said she took tranquilizers frequently because of severe emotional problems.

Early in the two-week trial, the prosecution presented testimony by Wanda Ostby of Bremerton, near Port Orchard, that Dr. Boehme had been intimate with her. The defendant first denied this, then admitted it. He continued to deny, however, her statement that he told her he would "take care of Mary."

Rain Will Hit Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES (AP)—More rain and high winds were forecast for Southern California today, following patches of heavy morning fog.

Many traffic accidents were reported Sunday when fog cut visibility and rains made road surfaces slippery.

Planning Commissioner Seeks Council Seat

COLIN K. WHITE
Candidate for Larkspur

Colin K. White, 32-year-old vice-chairman of the Larkspur Planning Commission, announced today he will be a candidate for election to the Larkspur City Council on April 12. He was an unsuccessful candidate in the 1964 election.

White, whose home is at 32 Olive Avenue, is the assistant production manager at General Converting and Laminating Corp. in Emeryville.

He is a director oft he Baltimore-Madrone Canyon Homeowners Improvement Assn.

He said his main objective is to "strive for the proper and orderly development of the undeveloped areas of the city and to implement steps similar to those presented in the recently rejected precise plan on the Larkspur Center to the Magnolia Avenue business district."

Two important tools, he said, in utilizing the best features of the city's undeveloped areas are the planned unit development and the planned district, now under study by the commission.

"The city should make every effort at its means to develop the Larkspur Park in conjunction with the new city library at the old county sump-fill site adjacent to Redwood High School," he said.

Completion of the proposed South Eliseo-Greenbrae Marina bridge over Corte Madera Creek "would help tie together" the areas of Greenbrae and old Larkspur "thereby providing closer city services, shopping areas and recreation to both section," he added.

Kerr Says Discipline Has Been Restored At Berkeley

BERKELEY (AP)—The University of California's president says his administrators now can prevent major disturbances at the Berkeley campus through "prompt and full discipline."

The president, Clark Kerr, in a interview yestserday, says that administrators had trouble maintaining discipline during student unrest in 1964-1965 because "we didn't have clean hands."

He said the Berkeley administration should never have closed the Sather Gate, a Hyde Park style campus area, to student political activity.

That action came in the fall 1964 when the office of then-Chancellor Edward Strong announced the enforcement of a long-dormant rule prohibiting certain political activities on campus.

The rules included bans against collecting money and recruiting members on the campus for political and social causes not connected with the campus itself.

Ordered removed were Sather Gate's tables for soliciting money and members for such off-campus activities as the Democratic and Republican election campaigns and civil rights groups—besides various campus radical groups.

The protest against the newly enforced rules grew to the massive sit-in at Sproul Hall, campus administration building, which was ended early Dec. 3, 1964, with more than 700 arrests. That demonstration was led by the Free Speech Movement.

Kerr described the chancellor's closure of the Hyde Park area as "tragic."

Blaze Damages Sausalito Home

Fire swept through the two-story frame home of Florette White Pomeroy at 67 San Carlos Avenue, Sausalito, yesterday, causing damage estimated at $5,000.

The Sausalito Fire Department reported the house was unoccupied when neighbors reported the smoke at 12:01 a.m.

Firemen said the smouldering fire, which started in the area of a floor furnace, spread to hallways, walls and attic, causing much smoke damage to the home and contents. Cause was still under investigation today.

Jersey cows were developed in the Channel Islands.

Change Missing

Theft of a purse between midnight and 2 a.m. yesterday from a bench at the Prince Charlie Inn, Tiburon, was reported to sheriff's deputies by Mary T. Olsen of 13 Broadway Avenue, Kentfield. The purse was later found by George Sugarman of 59 East View Drive, near his home. About $1 in change was missing.

Slayer's Theft May Be Ignored

William J. Dellinger, 36-year-old murderer back in San Quentin Prison today after 21 days of freedom, may "get away" with the burglaries and thefts police alleged he committed while on a weekend camp-out in Larkspur.

Shortly after Dellinger went over the wall at San Quentin Jan. 14, Larkspur police found evidence he spent two days in a thicket below the Tamalpais high-rise construction site.

Using a construction office as headquarters, police said the convict foraged through apartments nearby, stealing clothing and nearly $230 in cash.

He was caught in Reno Friday and was in the prison segregation block today pending disciplinary action.

Larkspur Police Chief Howard Clark said today, "It is entirely up to the district attorney whether proceedings are taken against Dellinger for the burglaries, but I doubt whether he will think it worth the expense to the county.

"Dellinger is back in prison now, and although we have a fair case against him, I don't think taking the matter further would serve any useful purpose."

Dellinger, serving a life sentence for the murder of his stepfather in Kern County, escaped by climbing the north wall by ladder on duty as a fire watch.

Another San Quentin escapee, Donald S. Heien, was recaptured in Newton Center, Mass., Thursday and is waiting to be returned to prison.

The 28-year-old convicted murderer walked away from the prison ranch May 4, 1964, and had been living under an assumed name.

Foundation Slated For Inverness

Members of the Inverness Improvement Assn. Saturday agreed to the creation of the Inverness Foundation, a nonprofit corporation dedicated to preservations of natural beauty and maintenance of trails.

Members hope to transfer ownership of Children's Beach, north of Inverness, to the foundation and avoid paying taxes on the property. Under such a transfer, the beach could not be sold without consent of a majority of the membership.

Directors of the improvement association will serve as directors of the foundation.

Directors Saturday agreed to hold future board meetings in Frick Hall of St. Columba's Episcopal Church, to be rented at $5 a meeting. Directors had been holding their monthly meetings at the firehouse, but the Inverness Public Utilities District Board, which operates the fire department, decided to charge $10 a meeting.

Directors agreed unanimously to accept the church's offer, according to Jack S. Mason, treasurer.

College For Quentin Subject Of Research

Revolutionary plans for an accredited college within the walls of San Quentin Prison are being studied by a research team from the University of California, Berkeley.

If established, the college-behind-bars would be the first in penal history.

He will direct the research effort, financed by a $99,200 Ford Foundation grant, in cooperation with the California Department of Correction and the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C.

"The prison college should produce a responsible citizen who understands himself and his relationship and obligations to society," Dr. Lohman, an internationally known authority on criminology, said today.

"Higher education within the prison setting will have a significant impact on the rehabilitation process," he said, "and there is every reason to believe that significant behavior changes will occur.

"Nothing less than a maximum effort is acceptable toward restoring to social usefulness those now cast aside, rejected and institutionalized."

Warden Lawrence E. Wilson of San Quentin commented: "This is something unique in the history of the prison system. If the study passes all the tests, we hope the college will establish new attitudes in teaching, for the men will not only learn educational content but significant social concepts of education as well."

The initial study will delve into the administration, faculty, site location, inmate admission standards, curriculum and inter-agency co-operation of a four-year college.

Consulting with the school of criminology will be members of the prison's educational staff as well as the university's school of education, university extension division, which already offers liberal arts courses in most of the state's major cities.

A public policy panel, acting as a national advisory group and consisting of 12 leaders in several fields, will convene in Washington, D.C., during the study to review its progress. A second group, acting as an operations board, will have direct responsibility for overseeing development of specific goals for the college.

An estimated 1,250 persons—five per cent of California's prison population—are qualified to perform college level work, according to the university. Federal prisoners who meet the standards could eventually boost the student-body to about 5,000.

Dr. Lohman said society would be the greatest beneficiary of a prison college. It could also lead to a reduction in crime and prison costs.

"Education," he said, "will fulfill a deep need which has been expressed by inmates and institutional authorities . . . and by that segment of the public that recognizes that continued long-term confinement of inmates has not produced desired results and is a luxury that cannot be afforded much longer."

The average cost of a 30-month confinement in California is more than $6,000, he said, plus the cost of maintaining a family while the man is away.

Patrick Complains Brown For Costs

William Penn Patrick of Tiburon, candidate for Republican nomination for governor, today blamed Governor Brown for the "exorbitant and economy-hurting costs of state welfare."

"Brown imposed no welfare department bugetary controls in his 1963-64 or 1965-66 budget bills," Patrick charged in a speech to the Lodi Republican Women today.

Patrick said it was only through the concern of members of the Legislature that some restriction were placed on several welfare aid programs.

Fuel Leak Halts Test Of Apollo Moonship

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) —A leaking fuel line today halted a key launch rehearsal for America's first Apollo moonship and its Saturn 1B rocket, threatening to delay the maiden unmanned launch now set for Feb. 22.

The full-scale countdown, first for the 224-foot space machine and its ground equipment, had proceeded to within 3 hours and 20 minutes of a mock blastoff when the drill was "scrubbed."

A spokesman for the U.S. Space Agency said it was not known what effect the delay would have on the initial sub-orbital flight in America's $21 billion drive to land men on the moon by 1969.

He said liquid hydrogen, kept at 422 degrees below zero, was leaking from a ground line leading from storage tanks to the rocket. Engineers said the trouble was relatively easy to repair.

The test included practically everything but the actual blastoff. The towering rocket and its spacecraft are duplicates of ones that may start carrying three-man crews into earth orbit late this year.

The purpose of the dress rehearsal was to check out the entire vehicle, its complicated ground equipment and launch procedures. The countdown earlier today had run into a string of "holds" that pushed it more than four hours behind schedule.

Botanist Sees Rare Flower Near Olema

A sharp-eyed Marin County botanist who discovered a New Zealand geranium plant while roaming near Olema has received the praise of the herbarium botanist at the University of California at Berkeley.

Mrs. Lilian McHoul of 318 William Avenue, Larkspur, who collects botanical specimens for display at the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum in San Rafael, spotted the geranium while walking in a forest on Bolema Club property on May 3.

Dr. Bergseng sent the specimen off to a New Zealand botanist, who confirmed her identification.

In a recent letter to Mrs. McHoul, Dr. Bergseng wrote: "It is really an honor to have rediscovered a plant from New Zealand, naturalized in California unbeknownst to the botanists."

Sheriff's Deputies Top Pistol Shoot Competition

Marin County sheriff's deputies proved themselves among the best sharp-shooters at pistol shooting competitions held in San Rafael Saturday and yesterday, attended by more than 300 law enforcement officers from Northern California.

Teams from the sheriff's office took first and second places in the county contest and deputies took second, third and fourth place trophies in the individual competition.

The competition was called the H. O. Peters Memorial Winter Championship in memory of the man who, for many years trained Marin law officers in handling firearms, and who established the San Rafael police pistol range.

Best individual scores were by: 1. Patrolman Dan Thomas of Novato; 2. Sheriff's Deputy Ernest Neilsen; 3. Sheriff's Sgt. Edward Levine; 4. Sheriff's Inspector William Johansen.

Third place in the county contest went to a team from San Rafael Police Department.

Garrigus Says He's Bowing Out

FRESNO (UPI) — Assemblyman Charles B. Garrigus, D-Reedley, says he is serving his last term in the legislature. Garrigus announced yesterday he will not run for re-election to the Assembly post he has held since 1959 and will devote his time to his job of teaching literature and composition at Reedley College.

Carrigus has been chairman of the Assembly Education Committee since 1963 and was noted for introducing literally hundreds of education bills.

The Reedley Democrat said he decided to stick to teaching because it pays better and because reapportionment added Madera County to his district making it more difficult for him to visit all his constituents.

Philadelphia Publisher's Son Discovered With Body

NEW YORK (AP)—The scion of a Philadelphia publishing family was found sitting in a rented car on Manhattan's lower East Side today and police said they found a girl's body in the car trunk.

A preliminary medical examination indicated the girl may have been dead as long as two weeks, and apparently died of an overdose of narcotics.

The girl, Celeste Crenshaw, 19, as a student at the private Rhodes School in midtown. She was the daughter of Mrs. William N. Gooden of New York and John Wyle Jr., a Georgia lawyer.

The young man at the wheel of the snow-covered car was Robert Friede, 25, grandson of the late Moses L. Annenberg, publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer, and nephew of Walter Annenberg now editor and publisher of the Inquirer and president of Triangle Publications, Inc.

Police said two cruising radio car patrolmen noticed that the car had been parked some time with its motor running.

The policemen questioned the driver, then took him to a police station where the body was discovered in the trunk.

What you should know about "Medicare"

Starting July 1, 1966, Medicare will provide valuable health insurance protection for nearly every American age 65 or over. This Social Security program will include:

Hospital Insurance to help pay the bills if you should be hospitalized. This part of the Medicare program is provided by the government without any charge to you. You are automatically covered if you are already receiving Social Security or Railroad Retirement benefits. Otherwise, you should get in touch with your Social Security office.

Medical Insurance to help pay for doctors' services and for certain other medical items. This part of the Medicare program is voluntary. To qualify for this coverage, you must enroll with the Social Security Administration and pay a $3 monthly premium beginning July, 1966. The government will pay a similar amount on your behalf.

New York Life recommends you take fullest advantage of the Medicare program, including the voluntary Medical Insurance coverage. If you will be 65 or over on July 1, 1966, you should:

Sign up for the voluntary Medical Insurance before March 31, 1966. If you delay, you could lose many months of valuable coverage because you may not have another chance to enroll until October, 1967.

Go to your Social Security office if you have any questions about Medicare.

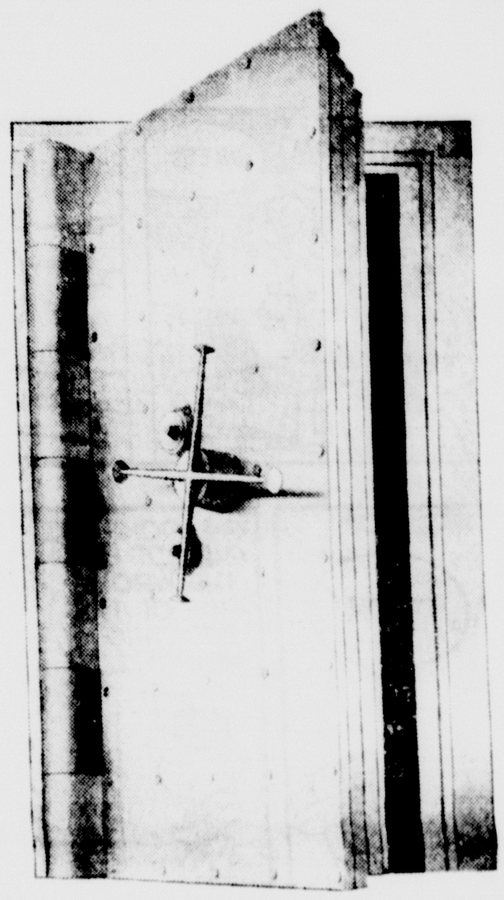

Keep your present health insurance until you are sure you are covered by Medicare. Your New York Life Agent will be glad to help you in any way he can.

Opponents' Play Offers Clue To Who Holds That Vital Ace

Even when you're playing at your best, there are times when you cannot tell which opponent holds a missing ace.

In such hands, it may help you to remember that the opponents do know which of them holds the ace.

Opening lead — ◇ A

Declarer won in dummy with the king of diamonds and returned the jack of spades.

East played low but stepped up with the ace of spades on the next round of trumps.

WRONG GUESS

Declarer won with the ace of hearts, drew the last trump and cashed his high diamonds.

Then he led a club, with the contract hinging on his play from the dummy.

South decided that West needed the ace of clubs for the opening bid; he therefore played the king of clubs from dummy.

Down one.

BOLD BIDDER

South's reasoning wasn't senseless, but it also wasn't safe.

Since West was a bold bidder, he might well have opened the bidding without the ace of clubs.

South could be quite sure that East had started with only two diamonds, that East wanted a diamond ruff and that East knew where the ace of clubs was.

When East took the ace of trumps, why didn't he lead a club in the hope of getting a diamond ruff from his partner?

There could be only one answer to this question.

East had the ace of clubs himself and therefore knew that there was no way to get the lead to his partner.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ A 6 3
♡ Q 4
◇ 9 5
♣ A 10 7 5 4 2

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three clubs.

Many experts treat this jump raise in a minor suit as merely invitational, not forcing. If you treat it as a forcing raise, your jump is a slight overbid but it is still the best available response.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Feb. 7, the 38th day of 1966 with 327 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter; the morning star is Venus; the evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

British novelist Charles Dickens was born on this day in 1812.

On this day in history:

In 1885, Sinclair Lewis, first American to win the Nobel Prize for literature, was born in Sauk Center, Minn.

In 1931, the American opera "Peter Ibbetson" by Deems Taylor had its world premiere at the Metropolitan Opera in New York.

In 1948, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower resigned as Army chief of staff and was succeeded by Gen. Omar Bradley.

In 1956, Autherine Lucy, first Negro admitted to the University of Alabama, was expelled on grounds that she accused school officials of conspiring in the riots that accompanied her court-ordered enrollment.

A thought for the day — British novelist Charles Dickens said: "There are books of which the backs and covers are by far the best parts."

INCOME TAX FACTS

Business At Home May Mean Deduction

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, C.P.A.

If you are required to provide your own space and facilities to work in and regularly use part of your home, you can deduct a pro rata share of the expenses and depreciation on your home.

P. J. Wikel

However, the voluntary, occasional or incidental use of part of your home in connection with your employment does not entitle you to a business expense deduction for any part of the depreciation and expenses of maintaining your home.

The burden of proof is upon you to establish:

1. That, as a condition of your employment, you are required to provide your own space and facilities for performance of some of your duties;

2. That you regularly use a part of your home for that purpose;

3. The portion of your home which is so used;

4. The extent of such use; and

5. The pro rata portion of the depreciation and expenses for maintaining your home attributable to such use.

You should maintain records which will show the deductible expenses such as rent, light, taxes and interest on a mortgage. No portion of purely personal expenses attributable to family household purposes is deductible.

The costs of repairs that do not benefit the portion of your home used for business purposes are not deductible. However, a pro rata portion of the cost of painting the outside of the home or repairing the roof, for example, would be deductible. The cost of painting and repairs to a room used exclusively for business purposes would be deductible in full, and a pro rata portion would be deductible if a part of the room was used for business purposes.

Expenditures for lawn care, landscaping, etc., are not deductible.

The basis for computing the depreciation allowed or allowable on your home which you own and use in your trade or business, is the lesser of the fair market value or the adjusted basis of the entire residence (exclusive of land) at the time of conversion to business use.

The portion of a home which is used for business purposes may be part of a room or one or more rooms. Where a part of a home is used for business purposes all the time the part of the depreciation and other costs incurred in maintaining the residence which is properly attributable to the space used in business is a question of fact. It would be proper to compare the number of rooms or square feet of space devoted to a business to the total number of rooms or square feet in the home and apply the ratio arrived at to the expenses to get the part for use of the home for business purposes.

Where a portion of the home is regularly used for business purposes only part of the time, a further allocation must be made on the basis of the ratio of the time the area is actually used for business purposes to the total time it is available for all uses.

Mover Has Time-Payment Plan; Investment Firm Names Tarabbia

Recent acceptance by the Interstate Commerce Commission on "move now—pay later" arrangements, instead of previous rigid requirements of cash or certified check for the full amount at destination, has caused North American Van Lines to institute a new time payment plan for interstate household shipments.

North American is probably the first one in the field to take advantage of the change in rules, according to Earl Farnsworth, manager of the van line's Marin County agent Pierce-Hardin Van and Storage, Inc., San Rafael. The new provision is already effective with the company, except for interstate moves within the 11 western states where it becomes active about the second week in March.

North American's tariff on file does require a minimum down payment of 10 per cent of total moving charges before delivery can be made, and the plan is subject to advance approval of credit.

Tarabbia Diamond

JAMES TARABBIA of Corte Madera has been elected assistant vice president of the investment firm Bache and Co., Inc., San Francisco. He joined the company in 1963 as a registered representative and since then has served as associate manager in Milan, Italy, and sales manager of the San Francisco office.

JULES J. DIAMOND of Terra Linda has been appointed western division manager of Browne-Vintners Co., New York. He joined the company in California in 1961 and was made Northern Pacific district manager in 1964.

JOHN W. MERRYMAN of San Rafael has been elected a vice president of the Bechtel Corp. He joined the firm in 1939 as a refinery engineer. Prior to his appointments in 1963 as manager of purchases and 1965 as manager of procurement for North America, his Bechtel assignments included World War II military projects, post-war nuclear power plants—also as nuclear engineering manager and manager of the Washington engineering office.

Heller Jenks

JONATHAN M. HELLER of San Rafael has been made assistant vice president and manager of Crocker-Citizens National Bank's Fillmore - Geary office in San Francisco. Heller joined the bank in 1955 at the Sansome Street office and was transferred to Fillmore - Geary the following year. He was made assistant manager there in 1963.

LIVINGSTON JENKS JR. of Mill Valley has been promoted to trust investment officer at Crocker-Citizens' San Francisco trust office. He joined the bank four years ago following an association with Hawaiian Trust Co. as an investment analyst. He was made assistant trust investment officer in 1964.

INSURANCE. State Mutual Life Insurance Co. has appointed Harold L. Grant of San Rafael regional group manager of the San Francisco group office and George D. Gazulis of Lucas Valley associate group manager. Grant has been with State Mutual since 1960; Gazulis since 1961. . . . James R. Williams of Los Ranchitos, member of the Redwood Empire agency of California-Western States Life, and his wife have returned from Palm Springs where he attended his company's Leading Sales Producers Club conference.

ALBERT E. KOGLER of Corte Madera, assistant vice president of the San Francisco brokerage firm Glore Forgan, William R. Staats, Inc., has been named to the floor trading and allocations committee of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange. He is a member of the Corte Madera Town Council.

Woman Fights For Peanuts In Nation's Peanut Butter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federation of Homemakers, led by a battling grandmother, moves to center stage today in its seven-year drive to keep more peanuts in peanut butter.

The ladies' group presents its view in the long peanut feud between the Food and Drug Administration and manufacturers of the spread.

The FDA wants peanut butter to contain at least 90 per cent peanuts or peanut oil. The manufacturers say 87 per cent is peanuts enough. Hearings have been held since last November with attorneys for the manufacturers doing most of the testifying.

Now it's the federation's turn and, says President Ruth Desmond of Arlington, Va., "We're going to hold out for 95 per cent peanuts.

"This way we figure that we ought to get 90 to 10," Mrs. Desmond said in an interview. "It's all womanly reasoning.

"Anyway," she added, "Why should we lower our standards? We figure that if we don't lower ours, the FDA won't lower theirs."

The peanut feud began in 1959 after an FDA investigator found one firm producing the spread with only 75 per cent peanuts. The FDA proposed a 95 per cent peanut standard in 1959 but, after a survey, dropped it to 90 per cent in 1961.

Last year the FDA issued a final standard of identity asking manufacturers to meet the 1961 requirement.

Wagstaff, McDonald Design Coleman Plan

Designers of new buildings planned for the site of the old Coleman School at 1711 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, were Wagstaff and McDonald of 292 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo.

The plan, which will be presented to the San Rafael Planning Commission tomorrow night, was described in detail in Thursday's Independent-Journal.

GOP Candidates Promised Help

Marin County Coordinating Republican Assembly supports Dr. Gaylord Parkinson's "11th Commandment," not to speak ill of other Republicans, Marin CRA Chairman Robert J. Guthrie of Terra Linda announced today.

Guthrie said his group passed a resolution calling for Republican support of GOP nominees through both the primary and general elections.

Guthrie was re-elected chairman of the Marin group for 1966. Other officers for 1966 are Or. Douglas Dever of San Anselmo, vice chairman; and Mrs. Jean Lee Guthrie of Terra Linda, secretary-treasurer.

Courthouse's Annex Not Hall Of Records

The annex, which is the building shown, was built in 1957 in a design more "modernized" than that of the old courthouse. The hall of records addition was built 50 years earlier and appears as a wing of the courthouse proper, of matching architecture.

MODERN MATH

First Of 10-Part Series On Understanding Child's Work

By PROF. W. F. LLOYD, University of Tampa

Do you know that every time that you add up a column of numbers you are utilizing the Associative Law of Addition? Do you know that whenever you multiply two numbers having more than one digit you are making use of the Distributive Law of Real Numbers? Do you really know what you are doing when you "borrow" in a subtraction problem? Your children do—or they will when they study Modern Mathematics.

Maybe if you had been taught the "why" of arithmetic as well as you were drilled in the "how," it would be a more inviting tool. What the schools are attempting to do with your children is to acquaint them with the functional reasoning behind the operations with numbers. This is Modern Math.

MODERN MATH is young. It is just now celebrating its 10th birthday. It grew out of a revolt against stagnation in the math curriculum in our public schools. It is now influencing colleges, and is spreading over the entire country. It may not be a perfect teaching method, but it's the best we have.

For over 200 years arithmetic was taught by memorization and drill. The children were required to memorize a seemingly endless number of rules and then spend hours in drill drudgery that was supposed to drive in the memorized routine. In the grade school they labored through arithmetic with unrealistically large numbers, and through dull, unimaginative, and artificial word problems.

Of course individual teachers and educators tried to change this dreary state of affairs, but the tremendous inertia of the system stifled their efforts.

The year 1955 marked the start of the first concentrated effort to change things. The College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) appointed a commission to make suggestions for improvement. The University of Illinois' work in high school math, and the University of Maryland's work in junior high schools around Washington, D.C., gave further authority to this effort.

All three of these projects received financial and moral support from the Carnegie Foundation. The Russians with their Sputnik I in 1957 boosted these revitalization efforts. Shortly afterwards the School Mathematics Study Group (SMSG) financed by the National Science Foundation was formed. This group adopted many of the findings of the earlier groups and carried them further.

THE HIGH SCHOOL CURRICULUM was revised first. in trigonometry, the emphasis on tedious calculations with logarithms was largely eliminated. (We have computers for that now.)

Solid geometry was replaced by an introduction to calculus or a math survey course. Algebra was no longer to be a "do it this way because it's right" course, but rather one stressing understanding and reason.

It was soon discovered that the revisions would be more successful if proper foundations were laid. The work was extended downward until it is now in the primary grades. Because they had no preconceived ideas nor habits to unlearn, the children took to this new math eagerly. Resistance came principally from parents who were not fully informed and thought their hard earned mathematical knowledge was being swept aside and rendered valueless.

This was and is not true. Your children will arrive at the same place as you have, or even a more advanced place. They are merely taking a different vehicle.

With modern math training, the good student will be a better mathematician, the average student will be improved, and the dumbbell will still be a dumbbell.

About the only ones to suffer are parents who have to face the fact that their children are learning something that had not been invented when they went to school. In every revolution the old suffer most.

Do not get the idea that there were no advances in mathematics during the long period of doldrums in the public school curriculum. Quite to the contrary, mathematics was advancing rapidly. The trouble was that this new knowledge was the almost exclusive property of top level mathematicians. SMSG and other experimental groups had access to this knowledge. They examined it critically and revised it for the lower grades.

THERE FOLLOWED a short period of chaos when some educators and a few authors grabbed at the work of these groups prematurely or without careful study. This led to some courses of study and some textbooks that were pretty extreme. Cooler heads soon prevailed and these early mistakes were rectified. Modern Math is here to stay.

Some principals and administrators seized on Modern Math early and eagerly transmitted their enthusiasm to their faculties so that the program was alive, vital and well taught. Others held out until the pressure of professional and public opinion became too great.

Some systems waited until junior high to introduce the new method. Others adopted it in all grades simultaneously, or in any combination that can be imagined. This lack of uniformity hurt the public image of the new subject.

Some students resented the break with tradition. Students were particularly bewildered when transferring from a traditional class to a modern class or vice versa.

Time is tending to heal these wounds. It is only when a child is brought up all the way with this new method that he receives maximum benefit.

You parents can not be blamed if you do not know nor understand Modern Math. Remember it had not been invented when you were in school. Either learn it or ignore it, but don't fight it.

It is hoped that this brief introduction has made you more sympathetic to the topic under discussion. Future installments will acquaint you with some of the details and some of the language used in our classrooms today. We may not be able to go into the subject deeply enough so that you will be able to do your child's homework, but you need no longer wear that questioning look on your face when the new words and terms pop up.

Mill Valleyan Writes 'Poor Poets' Recipes

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

How Ann Rogers, Tamalpais High School history and English teacher, happened to write a cookbook has a lot to do with its title—"A Cookbook for Poor Poets and Others."

The book is to be published on March 18 by Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, with a preface by New York poet and critic Louise Bogan, a fellow of the American Academy of Poets.

Brought to dinner at Ann's Mill Valley home one evening in 1962, Miss Bogan was so impressed with a good old San Francisco oyster loaf, Ann said, that she suggested, "Why don't you write a cookbook? I'll give you the title and write the preface." And so she did.

"I started on the project in the summer of 1962," said Ann.

"I hadn't started cooking until I was out of college because mother was a very good cook, and I simply stayed out of the kitchen because I made such a mess that I made her nervous.

"I still make a mess," she laughed., "but it doesn't make me nervous.

"I started with simple recipes, then began elaborating them, but now I can dream up things from scratch. My recipes are essentially simple — I call them peasant dishes."

CONFESSING THAT her methods of procedure were quite haphazard, the teacher-author-cook said that some of her first recipes were collected during hikes from members of the Sierra Club, many of whom came from foreign countries. This led to a special interest in foreign foods.

"And I've always been very lucky in being given recipes by friends," she explained. "One friend gave me a whole file of recipes handed down in her family for several generations."

A great many of the recipes have also been gathered on Ann's travels abroad, especially on one summer-long trip from the West Coast to the East Coast and Canada in 1962.

"All along the route I kept picking up recipes," she commented. "On this trip I also became interested in pots and pans, which led to my having such a large collection of them that I had to have my kitchen remodeled two years ago to make room for them."

Collecting recipes at the most unlikely times and spots resulted in a rich variety of source materials recorded in strange places.

"More than one business house has received a check along with the notes for a stew or broth scrawled on the back of the bill," she recalled.

THERE WAS ONE BAD moment when she thought all was lost.

"One day I opened the file drawer where I kept all the recipes," she said, "and everything was gone. But I suspected that my Siamese cats might have had something to do with it because Ben always sat on the desk while I was writing, and Abram had been sleeping in the file cabinet.

"Fortunately he had only pushed all the papers out the back of the drawer into the bottom of the desk."

Ann finished her book in the summer of 1963, and the time since then has been spent on procedures necessary to have it published.

AS TO THE BOOK ITSELF—Its central idea—as the title suggests—is mostly to give recipes that are suited to fluctuating finances and for occasions that range from pre-paycheck poverty to the temporary wealth of an unexpected bonanza.

Nor are poor poets the only beneficiaries. Others of this ilk are young families trying to get along on a shoestring, students, practitioners of the other arts with uncertain incomes and older people on pensions.

Most of the more than 200 recipes have the further advantages of being time and energy saving as well as thrifty, though there are some, such as Javanese Rijstafel calling for mountains of steamed rice and from 10 to 50 bowls of condiments, and desserts, such as Leckerlein cookies for which dough is aged from six months to one year before it is baked.

Ann Rogers sets down three rules for the most meager of dinners: (1) Always have fresh bread (2) Always use butter and (3) Always serve wine. And for more gala occasions likewise she has three rules: (1) Have something outrageously expensive (2) Serve it in the grandest manner, and (3) Use plenty of butter.

SINCE THE AUTHOR has been a teacher of journalism, it is not surprising that her book itself has poetic qualities. Her discussion of the importance of having fresh bread in her introduction could be entitled "Ode to a Big Fresh Role," and some of the titles to her recipes are very imaginative.

Here is a sample recipe — "Poor Poet's Borsch:"

The advantages of this soup are several-fold. It takes neither stirring nor watching over a steamy kettle, although its effect is that it was brewed there. This means what is saved in fuel can go toward the foreseeable rainy or foggy day.

"1 one-pound can shoestring beets, 1 10½ ounce can condensed bouillon, 2 cups buttermilk, 3 tbsp. sugar, 3 tbsp. lemon juice, ½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, 1 tbsp. chopped onion. Dump all ingredients into a bowl or jar, stir well, cover, and chill thoroughly, preferably over night." The soup is served cold.

A few biographical notes on the author are of interest.

A native of Oakland, Ann attended San Jose State College two years and then was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles with a degree in psychology and history. She obtained her teaching credentials and master's degree in education from Chico State College and began teaching English and journalism in high school in San Diego.

After coming to San Francisco she was assistant editor of the monthly magazine of the California Nurses' Assn. for a while and followed that with a brief period in advertising.

Returning to teaching, she taught 7th grade four years at Richardson Bay School in Sausalito and since 1957 taught English and journalism at Tamalpais High School until this year, when she was assigned history and English.

MILL VALLEY teacher-author-cook Ann Rogers was photographed preparing one of her one-pot dishes in the kitchen she had to have modernized to make room for her collection of pots and pans. One-pot dinners requiring no meat are among the least expensive recipes in Miss Rogers' about-to-be-published "A Cookbook for Poor Poets and Others."

Now, new I-J series makes 'MODERN MATH' CLEAR TO PARENTS

10 articles starting Feb. 7
in the I-J women's section

There's no great mystery to the "Modern Math" system of teaching arithmetic that youngsters now encounter in the classroom.

No mystery, that is, if it's properly explained. To make it clear to parents, we have engaged Prof. W. F. Lloyd of the University of Tampa, who has gained a reputation by explaining the system to teachers of the subject.

Prof. Lloyd has written a series that covers the essentials in easy-to-understand language and that starts in this newspaper Monday.

If you will follow it from day to day, and take the simple test that concludes it, you should be able to help your own youngsters with the subject—or at least know what they are talking about!

Also, you can obtain a booklet reprinting the series by sending 50 cents to "Modern Math" in care of this newspaper.

MUSIC REVIEWS

Room At The Top For S.F. Symphony

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A superb concert presented by the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra Saturday night at the College of Marin gave credence to maestro Josef Krips' prediction that the orchestra will soon be among the top ones in the country.

Nothing was lacking to make this concert an unforgettable musical experience. The orchestra was in top form — amazingly improved since its first program of this season. Krips was in his element directing works in the best of the romantic spirit. And the audience of nearly 1,500 was of the right number not to absorb too much sound. Acoustics were brilliant except possibly in a few spots in the gymnasium.

For most of the audience, probably the electrifying high point of the evening was the second number, Richard Strauss's tone poem "Don Juan," Opus 20.

So great was the rapport between conductor and orchestra that Krips often produced delicate nuances by the mere left of an eyebrow and other facial expressions, and at times it seemed as though he himself were performing certain solo passages by remote control.

Climaxes practically lifted one out of one's chair. It was the best performance of this work we have ever heard.

Many of the same merits were demonstrated in the other two numbers, the opening Schumann Symphony No. 1 in B Flat Major, Opus 38 ("Spring") and the concluding Beethoven Symphony No. 7 in A Major, Opus 92.

Both the Schumann symphony, in which the strings had a wonderfully rich quality, and the Beethoven symphony, performed with a rhythmic lilt that fulfilled its reputation as the "Dance Symphony," were marked by both bold and subtle contrasts in mood and dynamics.

Though there were many passages in which solo instruments and separate sections were outstanding, performance as a whole was characterized by marvelous esprit de corps that resulted in general excellence.

Never has it been clearer that there is no substitute for hearing a live performer, which is infinitely superior to even the finest stereophonic recording.

Organ Performance Has Grandeur And Finesse

Master organist Ludwig Altman made the 2,449 pipes of the Leonard William Buck Memorial Organ speak with both thrilling grandeur and subtle finesse in a virtuoso dedicatory concert last night.

Possibly the largest audience —something like 800 people including those standing—in the history of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo heard for the first time the concert potentialities of this beautiful Aeolian Skinner instrument, which was given to the church by Mrs. Leonard William Buck of Ross in memory of her husband.

Eclectic in design to permit performance of music of all styles, the organ proved to have great versatility in a program ingeniously devised by Altman to show off all its resources. This was done in four baroque works, two romantic and two contemporary of widely differing character.

The polyphony of the opening J. C. Bach Prelude in E Flat Major and closing magnificent Fugue in E Flat Major (St. Anne) was greatly enhanced by the clarity and flexibility of the great organ. Very interesting in the latter was the use in the second part of the Ruckpositiv section, the only one on the West Coast.

Variety of individual tonal colors and mixtures in small ensembles was admirably shown both in the ancient style of J. S. Bach's Chorale Partita "Sei Gegruseet, Jesu Gutig" and Milhaud's very modern nine preludes.

The expressive powers of the organ were most enjoyable in Mandelssohn's strong concert Fugue in E Minor and gentle andante with variations. They were of special interest, too, because they were entirely new, Altman having discovered them in manuscript form when he was in Germany last summer.

Other works on the program were Paul Creston's Toccata, a conservative modern tour de force brilliantly performed by Altman and J. S. Bach's two versions of "These Are The Holy 10 Commandments."

Slab Bid Call Slated

The Corte Madera Town Council, meeting at 6:30 p.m. today in the recreation room of the Public Safety Building, will be asked to call for bids on a multi-purpose slab for the town park and review bids received for channelization of Tamalpais Drive at Madera Boulevard.

VINCENZO GIANNINI
Will present chorale

Polyphonic Chorale Set

Vincenzo Giannini and his Giannini Polyphonic Chorale will present the third event in the San Domenico School cultural series next Wednesday.

It will be the first held on the campus of the new San Domenico School, which is continuing in San Anselmo in the century-old Dominican tradition. It will begin at 1 p.m.

The Giannini Chorale consists of 20 professional singers, mixed voices, who sing works from Palestrina and Monteverdi to Stravinsky. Composers represented in the Feb. 9 concert will be Palestrina, Pergolesi, Donato, Purcell, Mendelssohn, Somma and Ortelli. Also to be performed will be Giannini's own "Psalm 51."

A resident of Tiburon with his wife, Gloria, who is a soprano soloist with the chorale, Giannini is chorus master of the San Francisco Opera and director of the opera workshop of the Music and Arts Institute in San Francisco. He holds a doctorate in music from Naples University and two years ago was offered the position of opera chorus master of the Metropolitan Opera in New York City.

First appearance of the San Domenico singers, 38 student performers, will be on Feb. 27 at the pavilion.

Marin Parks Named In Budget Requests

Angel Island and Marin Headlands were among state parks named by Gov. Edmund G. Brown yesterday to benefit from a $19 million development program he will recommend to the legislature.

Brown said nearly $1 million would go for an "immediate use program" at these two and 18 other new state parklands. Specific allocations for each park were not disclosed. The entire immediate use program calls for 1,000 camping and picnicing units on 60,000 acres of new parkland by summer.

"We do not intend to acquire lark acreage and keep it closed to the public while the sometimes lengthy construction of permanent facilities goes on," Brown said. "We will open them immediately with interim facilities."

At present, only Ayala Cove (formerly Hospital Cove) is open to the public on 640-acre Angel Island State Park. The cove was renamed for Don Juan de Ayala, first European to enter San Francisco Bay in 1775.

Marin Hearlands State Park now consists of some 320 acres, most of it at Tennessee Cove. The legislature last spring refused to appropriation funds for purchase or lease of an additional 2,964 acres of federal land for the state park recommended by the California Division of Beaches and Parks. A projected state park totalling nearly 3600 acres remains in the planning stage.

The bulk of the governor's $19 million development program calls for permanent facilities, with $175,000 earmarked for Angel Island.

Proposed financing includes: $14.3 million from the general fund, $4.6 from the $150 million 1964 beaches and parks bond issue, and $522,145 from the small craft harbors revolving fund.

Size Cut Asked For Rights Unit

The Marin County Human Rights Commission will probably be decreased from 22 to seven members.

This was agreed upon in a session Saturday at the home of Community Relations Coordinator Walter Bremond. Others at the session were commission members Sally Garoutte, Richard S. Hann and Wyman Hicks.

Bremond said the recommendations to reduce the commission size will be discussed with county, Administrator Alan Bruce Wednesday.

The commission was organized in 1963. Recently many of the positions on it have remained vacant and attendance at meetings has been small.

Zucker Will Speak To Conservationists

Paul Zucker, new Marin County planning director, will speak on "Conservation and the Human Spirit," March 11 at 7 p.m. at the annual dinner of the Marin Conservation League.

Zucker was an aide to the chairman of the National Capital Planning Commission until he came to Marin last month. The dinner meeting will be held in the Student Center at the College of Marin.

Water Safety Courses

Water safety instruction courses will be held at the College of Marin swimming pool starting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. by the Marin County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

A preliminary course will run each Wednesday through March 23 and an instructor course will begin March 30 and meet each week through May 18. Candidates must be 18 or over and hold a current Senior Life Saving Certificate.

Basic Training Starts For Three Marinites

They are Dave J. Garbarino of 162 Picnic Avenue, and Barrett W. Oare of 66 Hillview Avenue, both of San Rafael; and Craig Brice of 203 Railroad Avenue, Woodacre. On completion of training, all will be assigned to school, shore stations, or ships.

Karl Barron Directing 'Witness'

Karl Barron, Independent-Journal drama critic and Shakespearean actor, assays a new role — that of director — in the Ross Valley Players' production of "Witness for the Prosecution," which will open Thursday night at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The Agatha Christie mystery play is scheduled for a four-weekend run: Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week; Feb. 18 and 19; Feb. 25 and 26, and March 4 and 5. Curtain time each night will be 8:30.

Cast in leading roles are Phyllis Courtney of Ross, Hall Fenton of San Anselmo, Jim Perry of San Rafael, Al Fowler of San Francisco, Reggie Walton of San Anselmo, George Shistar of Ross, and Eleanor Williston of San Anselmo.

Others in the cast include Tom Barker, Bob Eldred, Mike Lopez, Hugh Philo, Bryan Pierce, Mort Cohn, Barbara Morrisey, and Dan Vyfinkel.

KARL BARRON
Critic as director

Storer Will Speak

County Supervisor Thomas T. Storer will be speaker at a dinner meeting of the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Clay's Farm House Innn in Olema.

Case Continued

Arraignment of William Robert Dewire, 36, of Sausalito, was continued Friday in Monterey County Superior Court until 9 a.m. tomorrow. Dewire was arrested on a felony complaint charging conspiracy to commit forgery.

Cash Reported Taken From Novato Home

Terry C. Hunter of 40 Stirrup Lane reported to sheriff's deputies Friday that someone entered her home, south of Novato, between 12:30 and 3 p.m. and took $20.50 in cash from two bedrooms.

Deputies said that entry was made by forcing a sliding glass door.

COLLEGE STUDENTS GET NEW PLACE TO MEET AND EAT

'Servant' Play Collects Funds For Conference

The cast of the College of Marin drama department production, "Servant of Two Masters," collected $615 during the weekend, enough to send them to the Northwest Drama Conference at Eugene, Ore., according to James Dunn, head of the drama department.

Dunn had said the cast had to perform to capacity audiences in performances of the play Thursday, Friday and Saturday to raise enough money to make the trip.

Because of the rain, he said, only 20 persons were in the audience for Thursday's production.

The other two nights were sell-outs though, he said, and private contributions to the drama department made up the difference.

The cast of 11 students, plus two members of the drama department, will leave for the University of Oregon Wednesday afternoon. They will perform the play twice, Thursday and Friday, Dunn said. The conference is for directors of college and professional theaters in the Northwest.

Student Scholar Tops In Science

A young resident-to-be of San Rafael has won recognition as one of the nation's 40 most promising high school seniors in the field of science.

He is 16-year-old Michael Levintow, son of Dr. and Mrs. Leon Levintow of 9 De Anza Way, San Rafael. His parents moved here last August from Betheseda, Md., when Dr. Levintow accepted an appointment as professor of microbiology at University of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Michael remained behind to complete his studies at Walt Whitman High School in Bethesda, where he has been living with friends of the family.

Among 2,883 qualified entrants in the nation's top science contest, conducted by Science Service Inc., Michael was one of 11 girls and 29 boys judged best.

He will attend a five-day science talent institute in March at Washington, D.C., where he and the other winners will be judged for some $34,250 in Westinghouse Science Scholarships and Awards.

At Walt Whitman High School, Michael worked toward developing an algebraic system for providing theorems involving six geometric forms called "Artin braids."

He will enter the University of California at Berkeley in the fall, to specialize in research in pure mathematics.

Michael has three brothers, Stephen, 12; Daniel, 6, and Robert, 4. All are attending San Rafael schools.

Faulty Light Leads To Arrest

A car stopped in Tiburon by Tiburon Sheriff's Deputy John O. Goff for a faulty tail-light turned out to have been stolen in San Francisco and resulted in two men being booked in county jail on suspicion of auto theft.

Goff stopped the westbound 1952 Chevrolet on Tiburon Boulevard about 3 a.m. Saturday. He said the driver, James R. Burns, 28, of San Francisco, had no identification papers.

After a check it was learned the car was reported stolen in San Francisco.

Burns' companion was Michael J. Wheeler, also 28 and of San Francisco. Both are to appear in San Francisco Municipal Court Feb. 23 on the car theft charge.

Student Charged In Car Tampering

An 18-year-old Tamalpais High School student was apprehended by police early yesterday in Sausalito as he was reportedly removing a carburetor from a 1966 Chevrolet parked in front of 25 Marion Avenue.

Police said Gary Story of 512-D South Street, Sausalito, admitted he was attempting to remove the carburetor, and was taken to county jail and charged with vehicle tampering.

Woman's Purse Found In Hallway

A purse, reportedly snatched from the hands of Florence Seymour of 90 Harrison Avenue, Sausalito, on Thursday, was recovered that same day in the hallway of an apartment house at 7 Excelsior Lane, police said today.

Personal effects including keys, wallet and papers, were still in the purse. It was not known whether there had been any money in the purse. Frank Jennings of Apt. 23 in the apartment house found the bag, which was turned over to police.

Bolinas Beach Improvement Club members Saturday appointed Jose Silva to head a committee to handle election of officers at the March 5 meeting, Mrs. C. E. Froehlich, secretary, said today. Members held a Valentine's Day party on Saturday.

HIGHWAY 37 PUT IN STATE STUDY

'Death Strip' Curves, Speed, Surface Considered; Some Drainage Improved

The "death strip" on Highway 37 near Black Point — where three persons have died in a series of recent accidents—is under intensive study by the state Division of Highways.

Two drivers were seriously injured Thursday on the graded curve just west of Blank Point Bridge when an eastbound car spun across the divider strip and into a westbound car.

Three persons died in nearby accidents last Nov. 24 and Jan. 4 in similar head-on collisions.

"We're very aware of that stretch of highway and have it under thorough study," Howard Miller, district maintenance engineer for the highway division, said today.

"Some work has already been done in the area. We have removed the raised chevron bars on the highway at the bridge approach, thinking they might have collected water and made the highway slippery."

Miller pointed out that the approach includes two reverse curves on a grade. He said these will be studied to see if the way they're banked should be modified for today's higher speeds.

"Standards applying to those grades were adopted more than 15 years ago," he said.

The engineer noted that this was "a very unusual series of accidents." He said, "That section of highway has been in existence a long time without anything like this happening."

Higher speeds on Highway 37 may result from road improvements as well as automobile engineering, Miller said. "Now that we have the Highway 101-37 interchange, motorists accustomed to high freeway speeds continue without interruption onto Highway 37."

If speed is a factor, Miller said, "lower limits will be posted."

Another factor in the suddenly increased accidents, he said, may be the greatly increasing traffic on Highway 37.

Also under study is the road surface to see if unusual slipperiness is caused by rain. "If that's it, Miller said, "surface treatment will be undertaken."

Division traffic engineers, Miller said, are reviewing all accidents on Highway 37 with the highway patrol to find out if driver negligence or improper car maintenance is the principal cause. It was reported by the patrol that one of the cars in Thursday accident had smooth front and rear tires on the left side.

Miller said: "A median barrier will also be considered, but only as a last resort. The important thing is to find ways to prevent cars going out of control on that stretch of highway."

Beer Taken From Two Inns; Cabin Cruiser Burglarized

Burglars of two Marin County inns should be well-stocked with beer, sheriff's officers reported today.

Jeff G. Fisher, bartender at Black Point Inn, told deputies someone forced a side door of a storeroom, making off with about 17 cases of assorted beer.

Stein and Dine, 5949 Redwood Highway, Ignacio, was entered by breaking a front window. Officers said a keg of draft beer was taken from under a counter there. Also taken, they said, was an undetermined amount of coins after battering open a cigarette machine and a juke box.

Ronald E. Van Keuren, San Francisco, reported someone apparently found a hidden key to his newly-purchased 26-foot cabin cruiser docked at Kappas Yacht Harbor, Waldo Point.

Van Keuren told deputies the burglars boarded the craft, went below to loot a large quantity of items including a ship-to-shore radio, compass, fathometer, fire extinguishers, life jackets and a water pump.

The key was then replaced, he said. No value estimate of the loss was immediately given.

Leon Johnson, salesman for Pleasant Valley Homes, Pleasant Valley, Novato, said burglars attempted entry of two model homes in the 2500 block of Center Road, then succeeded in breaking into a third by forcing a sliding glass door.

A rented tape recorder and four tapes were taken. The intruders also ransacked the kitchen and tipped over chairs, officers said.

Mary L. Carlsen, 1 Fawn Court, Sleepy Hollow, said her home was entered via a bathroom window. Loot included a radio, one bottle of liquor, and $2 cash.

An estimated $48 worth of inter-communication system items were taken from the home of Grover Edward Grady, 201 Goodhill Road, Kent Woodlands. Grady said the intruders climbed onto a scaffold being used to plaster a chimney, then entered an upstairs window.

John W. Love, 6 Seadrift Landing, Tiburon, told deputies a raincoat containing $40 cash and a $175 camera were taken from his parked car. No forced entry was evident, he reported.

Betty R. Couacaud, 8 Rose Court, Novato, reported $6 taken from a jewelry box in her bedroom. Means of entry to the home was not known.

Burglars also struck at the home of Jack Gaetano Cacace, 2741 Heatherstone Drive, Marinwood. A patio screen door was opened but entry was not made.

Marinites Score High At Academy

William Dietrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Dietrich of 228 Ricardo Road, Mill Valley, led students in the upper school with an A minus average. John Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Wright Jr., of 243 Point San Pedro Road, San Rafael, led Lower School students.

Other Marin students with an A minus average in the Upper School were William Weissich, son of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Weissich of 211 Locust Avenue, San Rafael; Mark Proctor, son of Mrs. Anne A. Proctor of 33 Estelle Avenue, Larkspur; Nicholas Paun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter S. Paun of 705 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo; Norman Bosshard, son of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Witt of 704 San Pedro Road, San Rafael; Richard Hackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Hackett of 26 El Cerrito Avenue, San Rafael; and James Detro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard I. Detro of 104 Rafael Drive, San Rafael.

Among those with a B plus average were John Gannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Gannon of 170 Margarita Drive, San Rafael; Philip Welchman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Welchman of 222 Reed Circle, Mill Valley; Craig Snazelle, son of Mrs. Mary L. Rolly of 253 Irwin Street, San Rafael; Rick Hillrigel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hillrigal of 30 Mission Avenue, San Rafael; and Bruce Whiteley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Whiteley of 175 Reservoir Road, San Rafael.

Lum Changes Plea On Theft At Theater

Change of plea to guilty was entered in Marin Superior Court today by Wilbur John Lum, 19, charged with grand theft of $337 from Marin Theater in Sausalito last Sept. 29.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner scheduled sentencing for Feb. 28. Lum, of Sausalito, originally was to have had a jury trial starting today. Denise Coleman, cashier at the theater, 100 Caledonia Street, told officers a man appearing to have a gun in his pocket forced her to hand over the money in five bags.

A second youth, Marc Torvend Ford, 18, of 450-A Pine Street, Sausalito, was also arrested but no information was filed against him following a preliminary hearing.

Rancho School Park On Novato Agenda

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission will discuss the park at the Rancho School site when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Novato Community House.

The commission will also discuss the status of Stafford Lake Park and the preliminary swimming pool budget for next summer.

Kentfield Hospital Plan Draws Neighbors' Protest

Plans for an 86-to-99-bed convalescent hospital in Kentfield were revealed today before Marin County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill.

The hospital would be on an acre between Stetson and Maple avenues, and residents on those two streets protested at the hearing.

However, the zoning administrator said he thought the use would be "suitable" and that he would probably issue a use permit, with conditions on traffic circulation, building location and landscaping.

Applicants are Joseph Pell and Robert Busse. Their architect, Allan Johannes, said the hospital would call for about 33 auto trips a day. Plans were originally for a 99-bed hospital, but he said a 86-bed hospital is being considered now.

There were four written protests from neighbors and another four spoke against the hospital today, questioning mostly the traffic that would be generated and noting that the property is zoned for single family residences.

Cordill several weeks ago denied a permit for a convalescent hospital adjacent to the Kentfield Fire Station and just south of the Pell-Busse proposal. The planning commission, however, overruled the denial. The development is held up by pending decision on plans for widening Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Ball Park Plea On School Agenda

A request for a Little League baseball diamond at the Rancho School site will be discussed by the Novato Unified School District Board at 8 p.m. today in the administration building.

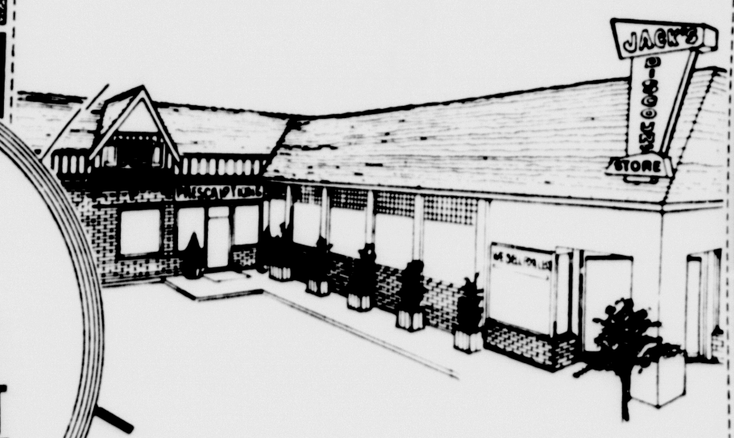

Both the Little League and the Novato City Council have asked the school district for permission to construct a ball diamond on the property, to be maintained by the city.

Other items include purchase of an elementary school site in Marin Ooaks, increasing the authorized footage at Lu Sutton School addition, reviewing preliminary plans for a new junior high school, and application for planning funds for two elementary schools.

Saw Stolen

Robert G. Rudeback reported to Mill Valley police at 11 a.m. yesterday that someone entered his unlocked garage at 180 Manor Drive and stole a coping saw valued at $50, sometime between Jan. 30 and yesterday.

Sausalito Correct To Stop Dangerous Solicitations

There was obviously nothing sinister in the Sausalito city officials' original intent of furnishing the new police headquarters with donated material and cash.

The police department's and/or the city manager's idea of furnishing the new office with little or no cost to taxpayers was a noble one.

Despite these good intentions, such practices could have set a dangerous precedent for the city and worked to the ultimate disadvantage of the community.

Innocent donations for the public good, under different circumstances, could easily lead to further donations with strings attached. Scandals involving favoritism and bribes can and do start from such innocent beginnings.

Members of the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce should be commended for being alert to the potential dangers involved and bringing the matter to the attention of city fathers.

Credit is also due to Police Chief Kenneth H. Huck and City Manager Charles A. Brown for recognizing that the Chamber of Commerce had raised a pertinent point and for returning the donations forthwith.

In the past, apparently, a couple of firehouses had been furnished with the help of donations.

It is not at all difficult to see how this practice was initiated. City officials, eager to provide adequate facilities in their new fire or police station, and attempting to keep tax costs to a minimum, would shop around for the best buys, perhaps at surplus stores.

Going one step further, an enterprising official could ask himself: Why use tax money at all? I've got friends who have extra appliances and furniture they would be glad to donate. Why not accept them?

There was never even a hint of personal profit from such gifts.

City employees who put in countless off-duty hours to prepare the new police station for occupancy and to collect donations for furnishings were motivated by pride in their department and consideration for the taxpayers' pocketbooks.

When the potential dangers were pointed out, the officials were quick to openly acknowledge the errors in judgment and abandon the practice for all time.

They agreed completely with the mayor and the city council that "we want no future solicitations of any sort by anybody of any department in the city—no matter how noble the purpose."

No one is infallible. When errors or potential trouble spots come to light, full and open discussion and corrective measures are the best solution.

This, the people and officials of Sausalito have done. We commend them for it.

The Way The Ball Bounces

We've all heard the expression, "That's the way the ball bounces!" It is rather fatalistic and usually expresses one's acceptance of unavoidable bad luck. But if the ball of personal fortune bounced like the new Superball, we would all be rich, famous, healthy and contented.

Superballs are a new plastic molded under tremendous pressure that bounce like crazy. Starting last fall they became a fad in Marin and now they've gone international. In Japan, they are advertised as "the ball that defies gravity."

Black, unpretentious looking, the size of a small orange, they are a craze, much like the hula-hoop. But we predict this one will have more staying power. The yen of children to play ball games must go back to when Og carved them out of wood. We think a ball with extra bounce will be around a long time.

Brown Candidacy No Surprise; Reagan Given Underdog Role

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown's announcement that he will be a candidate for a third term as governor of the State of California this year was in no way surprising. Neither was it unanticipated.

His action and the action of his administration during the past few weeks were enough indicators to reveal the fact he intended to once again present himself as a candidate.

Particularly, the action of some of his staff in recruiting funds from his appointees made it certain.

AS A RESULT of Brown's announcement, the present picture looks like a battle between the governor and Ronald Reagan next November.

Of course, neither one of the candidates has yet hurdled the primaries in June.

However, for the Democratic nomination, Brown has no opponents, and it is not likely he will have any. This results from the simple fact that Brown is the party leader and the party controls the campaign funds. Most of the heavy donors are Brown men.

Reagan has one opponent for the Republican nomination who can be given some, but not much, consideration. This is ex-Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco.

CHRISTOPHER IS being ballyhooed as the "moderate" Republican candidate. This is intended to leave the implication that Reagan is some kind of a right-winger. This is all a part of the political game.

From all that Reagan has said so far, his only aim in being a candidate is to bring some sense back to government, and perhaps take some of the load off the people's back with good administration.

In announcing his candidacy, Brown said his greatest satisfaction in achievement has been in "building a good life for today, and a better life for the children."

His administration has built a good life for everyone except the people who pay the bills.

HIS ADMINISTRATION has set records in disbursing tax money to welfare; increasing unemployment insurance to "rocking chair" cases; in spending tax funds to aid rioters and pillagers; in disbursing federal anti-poverty funds in areas where such funds were neither requested nor needed, and in many other fields such as tax increases.

It has to be admitted that the governor will be an odds-on favorite to win re-election in November.

He will have tremendous support from that segment of the voters benefitting one way or another from the state's contracts, and the easy money being paid out in unemployment insurance.

He will also have support from that segment of the electorate which believes in socialistic distribution of dollars hard-earned by workers to those people who do not produce and choose to live on the efforts of those who do.

Eight years of liberalism in California under Brown have signaled approach to the point where taxes are becoming almost confiscatory. Another four years and the state could well reach that point.

Idea Offered To Aid Revival For '1984'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I note with some interest that we are resuming the bombing of Viet Nam and requesting the U.N. to help us find a peaceful solution to the conflict. Perhaps it would do us good to reread George Orwell's 1984, which states in bold capitals that WAR IS PEACE, that IGNORANCE IS STRENGTH, and in which wars are run by the Ministry of Peace while false information is disseminated by the Ministry of Truth. Since the sales of this book have not set any records in the past 15 years, I propose the following:

Many bookstores order 1984. We discover a high school student reading 1984 and raise a loud cry demanding that the book be removed from all high school reading lists. This action, which revived so triumphantly the lagging sales of Jack Kerouac's On the Road, should indeed be successful, but in case it is not, we could always change the name of 1984 to A Cat Called Peace.

Atheism Not Always Equal To Immorality

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Every time I read a letter by Mr. Eric Lane, I am amazed at how he can twist facts. I am not an atheist; I have a very strong belief in God. But I have met atheists. Many American atheists I have met have just as strong a sense of right and wrong as non-atheists. Your sense of what is right and wrong and moral values is mainly dependent upon your "upbringing" and your respect for law.

Mr. Lane is correct in stating that most communist and fascist countries are run by men inclined to atheism but those same countries are inhabited by a great many people who are not atheists.

Even after almost 50 years of communism, Russia still has a great many people who believe in God, and they still have churches. There are not as many churches as there were 50 years ago, but there are probably almost as many who believe that there is a God even though they may have less of what might be termed "formal education" on the subject.

. . . It is not easy to wipe out belief in God. Most of us recognize that there has to be a power in this universe greater than ourselves. . . .

Mr. Lane's . . . method of arriving at his conclusions simply does not agree with the way most people think.

Writer Contends Catholic Wrong

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to challenge Eric Lane's letter of Jan. 29, and prove it to be from the warped mind of a religious fanatic. Whenever anything goes wrong in this world, it is easier to blame the atheist than to analyze and solve the problems at hand. You are so busy finding fault with atheists, that you are blind to your own.

You quote the words of a partially insane man to describe the results of atheism, when they should be used to describe the largest, most omnipotent religious governmen in the world, the Roman Catholic Vatican.

You talk about absolute despotism, well, I ask, could any government be more so than one run by the Vatican? Name any atheist government that prevents unhappy marriages from being dissolved or bans the use of pills to prevent unwanted life. This very day teachers are striking a Catholic college because it supresses the teaching of the truth.

When you vote in this year's election, you may be deciding whether you wish this nation to go down the road to atheism, but won't that be better than being led by men who believe in ghosts?

High School Boxing Card Draws Blast

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Anyone who has not seen the Jan. 27 issue of the Independent should hurry out and get a copy before they are all gone. The face page of the sporting section is one to be remembered. A large quarter-page photograph of a Marin County high school lad as he lies unconscious on the mat is one to remember. The boxing matches were great! There was only one real knock-out, but there were two technical KO's. Must have been a lot of action.

Possibly at the moment it was worth it to the victim to get a "rousing ovation" as he walked out of the ring. To the thousand in the audience it may have been a real thrill. How worthwhile it may be to the victim in years to come may be something to consider when he finds it a little difficult to concentrate, a little hard to remember, or not quite bright. A detached retina or a little brain softening here and there will hardly be related to a night so long ago.

The picture was good and it shows that we have real red-blooded American youths, even if some of that blood is forever clotted and a bit of the brain is no longer brain but a cicatrix. A little thinking about this might be worthwhile.

Air Force Receives Veteran's Criticism

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This week our Air Force scores two more victories for freedom: (1) they have driven off an invading force of starving, freezing, jobless Negroes from Greenville Air Force Base, and (2) they have begun again with the bombing of North Viet Nam, a country on whom we have never declared war, which possesses no fighter planes with which to defend itself.

It reminds me of Mussolini's son bombing the Ethiopians.

DOWN ON THE Bowery, a nondescript restaurant still stands where once a penniless lad named Irving Berlin played the piano and sang for his supper. One evening not long ago, Berlin, long a millionaire, decided to revisit his old haunt. In a nostalgic glow, he seated himself at the battered old piano, and began to hum "White Christmas." In the middle of the rendition, a guide showed up with a busload of tourists to point out the spot where Berlin's career began. "As a matter of fact," he added, "that Bowery bum is playing one of Boilin's toons right now."

He then walked over and placed a heavy hand on Berlin's shoulder. "Fella," he announced, "if Oiving Boilin could hear the way you're moiderin's one of his greatest songs, he'd toin over in his grave!"

ONE OF THE best stories of the recent power failure in the Northeast is told by Radie Harris. One of her girl friends climbed 25 flights of stairs just to make sure that her mother was O.K. Once assured of this fact, she flung herself, exhausted, on the nearest bed. Whereupon her mother screamed, "Get up from there immediately! You're ruining the spread."

Moscow, Hanoi Gang Up, Prevent Peace Discussions For Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — There is only one answer to the question: Is the Soviet Union friend or foe of getting the Viet Nam war to the peace table?

It is that Moscow, to the surprise of some, is proving itself an unyielding foe of every effort to replace war with negotiation.

The latest evidence is at the United Nations, where the Soviets fought against allowing the Security Council to call a conference to which all parties to the war would be invited.

Hanoi and Moscow played it in harness, like this:

1. Hanoi served notice in advance that it would reject intervention by the U.N., that it would consider any action by the U.N. on Viet Nam as "null and void."

2. Stage two then emerged. Evidently Hanoi now wanted to appear a little willing to negotiate without running the risk of having to negotiate. It did this by suggesting that "consideration (of) . . . Viet Nam falls within the competence of the 1954 Geneva agreement on Indo-China." Could this mean that Hanoi is ready to return to the Geneva conference to discuss a settlement?

3. It is at this point that the third stage of the ploy came into view in order to enable Hanoi to say it would talk settlement at Geneva without having to do so. How? Moscow takes care of that by refusing, as co-chairman, to call the Geneva conference into being.

Hanoi rejects the U.N. Moscow rejects both the U.N. and Geneva. And there it is: Hanoi to Moscow to dead end.

THERE ARE SOME who have expected that the Soviet Union might help toward a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam, for two reasons:

Because the rivalry between Red China and the Soviet Union has become so bitter and fierce that Moscow might be expected to counter Peking policy at every point.

But now those who hoped that Moscow would be a friend of negotiation over Viet Nam have to admit that the evidence is completely the other way.

THERE WERE special circumstances in the India-Pakistan affair and no ideology and no Communist country involved. For Moscow it was an exception.

And as far as Viet Nam and "wars of liberation" generally are concerned, the Sino-Soviet feud works positively against the interests of peace. It causes each to try to outdo the other's determination to support "wars of liberation," including Viet Nam.

The real color of Soviet policy is not visible from Tashkent. That was a passing pastel. The real color is visible from last month's tricontinental conference of 743 delegates from 82 Communist countries and Communist parties in Havana.

It was summoned to provide new strategy and larger resources to further Communist "wars of liberation" in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

THE CHIEF Russian delegate, a top man in the Kremlin, said:

"The Soviet delegation came to this conference to promote in every conceivable way the unity of anti-imperialist forces on three continents, so as to unfold in still greater scale our common struggle. The Soviet people support people's wars."

This is the mainstream of Soviet policy. This is why Moscow joins Peking and Hanoi in blocking all peace efforts over Viet Nam. Moscow supports the war unreservedly.

Military Shortages Due To Sloppiness

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee's unpublicized investigation of military shortages is uncovering a lot of gravely disturbing pay dirt—much of it due directly to the armed services themselves.

Still in its early stages, the probe, conducted behind closed doors because of the classified nature of much of the information, already has a jolting record of numerous instances of crucial combat shortages and inadequacies attributable squarely to Army, Air Force and Marine Corps negligence, mismanagement, incompetence, waste and other failings.

A great deal of this evidence was turned over to the Senate investigators by the General Accounting Office, which in the past five years has submitted more than 25 detailed reports on such deficiencies. Many of the most scathing, disclosures are not publishable as a result of being declared classified by the Defense Department.

Graphically illustrative of the critical tenor of these reports is the concluding paragraph of a 1965 study titled "Inadequate Maintenance and Supply Support of Aviation Units of Eighth U.S. Army, Korea," as follows:

"This report is the latest in a series issued by the General Accounting Office on the readiness of Army equipment in which the underlying deficiencies were often similar to those described in this report. The Army has stated in this instance that a major cause of the problem was a shortage of trained and experienced personnel.

"We believe that a more fundamental cause was the failure of the Eighth Army to identify the extent and seriousness of the deficiencies. We believe many of the problems would have been correctible within the capabilities available to the Eighth Army had they been identified. . . . We believe that continuous command attention will be required to realize any long-term improvement in this area."

THE REPORT pointedly notes that its complete account of this survey was classified "confidential" by the Department of the Army.

However, certain portions are now available for publication. What they reveal is not a pretty picture, particularly of an army whose "primary mission is to deter further aggression" in Korea. Following are highlights of what the GAO found:

"During a six-month period, the availability of operational aircraft assigned to units of the Eighth Army was less than necessary to fully meet mission requirements. This condition was caused to a large extent by (1) inadequate supply support, (2) ineffective utilization of qualified personnel, (3) shortages of technically qualified maintenance personel.

"This condition was further aggravated by the failure of the units to effectively utilize the mechanics assigned to them.

"The mechanics were assigned to such jobs as lifeguards at swimming pools, dog handlers, truck drivers and control tower operators. In addition, mechanics were required to perform a number of other incidental activities, such as guard and company duty and attending school, which further decreased the time available to perform maintenance work.

Paper Airplane Carries Quatrain; Don't Forget To Write Supervisor

This snide quatrain was discovered on the left wing of a paper airplane that had crashed in the shrubbery at the northeast quadrant of the building.

The Personnel Dept.
Here the men wear wrinkled brows
And grumble at their labor
And wonder why the law allows
The board to pick a neighbor.

THE PERSONNEL DEPT. also got some heat earlier last week in a newsletter that was circulated with the pay checks for all county employees. The heat came from the county's own personnel, the County Employees Assn.

It told of plans to fill the new post of full-time manager for the association. William Desmond, president of the association, wrote:

"We trust that this person will be equal, and we trust superior, to anyone presently dealing with personnel problems of the employees of Marin County at this time."

Checks for the county supervisors, the county administrator and members of the personnel department were accompanied by this newsletter. You can hardly say they were complimented by it.

TO CHANGE THE SUBJECT for a moment, Ernest Nile Kettenhofen, the supervisor for the second district, is telling this story with considerable glee.

Last week, a constituent came into Kettenhofen's San Rafael office announcing himself as the Marin representative for Write Your Congressman, Inc., a new, national organization with headquarters at Dallas, Tex.

Idea is to subscribe to the outfit and receive a monthly questionnaire which members fill in and send to their representatives. Kettenhofen reports that the questionnaire suggested the outfit was somewhat right of center politically, but it is dedicated to democratic principles and in need of principal.

But the constituent, a resident of Kentfield, got no money from the supervisor.

The Kentfielder (no names please) said that the strength of the organization rested in knowing your elected representative.

"YOU BELIEVE in that?" Kettenhofen asked.

"Oh, absolutely," the man said.

"Do you know who your county supervisor is? Do you write to him?" Kettenhofen asked.

The man swallowed hard and said that he did not know who his county supervisor is.

"Yet you come in here trying to say that everyone should know their elected representatives," Kettenhofen said shaking his head.

"All right, who is my supervisor?" the man asked, sticking out his chin in challenge.

Education Board To Discuss Pay

The Marin County Board of Education tonight will again discuss proposed salary increases for employees in the County Superintendent of Schools office. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

At a budget session Jan. 17, the board held up adoption of salary increases after learning that surveys of salaries elsewhere in the Bay Area which had been given it for comparison included only the higher paying districts.

Proposed increases include 2 per cent, plus $250-a-year across the board hike for teachers and 2 per cent plus $500-a-year across the board hike for administrators. Other employees would get a straight 5 per cent increase.

Merger Discussed

The Bolinas Beach Public Utility District Board Friday discussed again the proposed consolidation of its district with the Bolinas PUD District but failed to reach any decision, reported president John S. Lancaster.

Bridge District Board President To Speak

L. E. Castner, president of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, will outline the long-range planning program for the Golden Gate Bridge at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Southern Marin tomorrow noon, at Sabella's restaurant, Alto.

Special emphasis will be given to plans for a second deck, a study of a second San Francisco-Marin crossing, and "what the bridge has meant to Marin County." Castner, a bridge director since 1952, is a real estate and insurance broker in Boyes Hot Springs, Sonoma County.

President Escalates In Blizzard As Peasants Keep On Shoveling

WASHINGTON—Washington just had one of the biggest blizzards in its history and, dicted, no one thought it would although snow had been prebe on this scale.

One of the reasons for this is the credibility gap where people are suspicious of everything that is announced in the nation's capital.

I discussed this with a high government official as he was digging his car out of the driveway Monday morning. "Sir, did you know there was going to be a blizzard Saturday night?"

"I'm as surprised as anybody," he said. "I heard that bad weather was in the works, but I thought this was just a way of President Johnson making it easier to announce he was going to resume the bombing of North Viet Nam."

"Who authorized the blizzard?"

"IT HAD TO come from the White House. My department certainly knew nothing about it. We weren't even consulted."

"Do you think a blizzard was a good thing to have at this time of the year?"

"Well, you have to remember the President is the only one who can make this agonizing decision. He has all the facts. While a blizzard may look like the worst thing to give the people, it could, in the long run, be the best thing we could do under the circumstances."

"There are some people who believe Congress should have decided whether we should have had a blizzard or not."

"Congress gave President Johnson a vote of confidence in 1965 and said they would support any decisions he made concerning the weather."

"YESSIR, BUT they thought they were voting for a light snowfall or at the most a white Christmas. They had no idea the President was going to get us into a blizzard."

"The President didn't want a blizzard any more than anybody else. For the last three months he has done everything to keep the weather from getting out of hand.

"But the elements have been against him and it is his opinion that, unless we stand firm in the face of heavy snowfall now, we will have a worse blizzard later on. Everyone in this Administration is for clear weather, but it has to be clear weather with honor."

"Isn't one of the dangers of a blizzard that the harder you try to dig out of it, the more chance you have of getting stuck in it?"

"Nobody knows the dangers of a blizzard more than the President. He did not arrive at his decision to have one until he consulted with many, many people."

"Was Dean Rusk in on it?"

"I'M SURE of it. He had to notify our allies what we plan to do."

"Have they supported him in the blizzard policy?"

"They haven't given snow plows or road-clearing equipment, and there are some of our friends who asked the President to hold off on the blizzard indefinitely and give the elements a chance. But here again the President had to make the final decision."

"Could this lead to larger and larger blizzards?"

"We certainly hope not. The dropping of snow at this time should indicate that we mean business and, although we may be up to our necks in snow, this doesn't mean we wouldn't be the first ones to want it all to melt."

"What happens if the blizzard doesn't work?"

"We'll have to cook up some other kind of storm."

Doctors Speed Test For Sugar

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Doctors at the University of Michigan say they have cut drastically the time of the test which reveals abnormally high blood sugar.

Epidemiologists at the university's School of Public Health said the simplified test requires one blood sample and takes one hour.

They said the new test was as accurate as the old one, which required two to three days of preparation and a test period of two to five hours.

Lighting Goes Up And Down

SOCORRO, N.M. (AP) — Does lightning go up or down?

Both, says a scientist at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technonogy. But what you are likely to see is the lightning going up.

Dr. Walter H. Evans also said that lightning gives off the same type of light as X-rays emitted by nuclear blasts, a phenomenon which can trigger the so-called black boxes for nuclear detection.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Doctors Sometimes Cause Illness By Their Manners Or Gestures

VAN DELLEN

Several years ago I saw a middle-aged man who seldom worked because he developed shortness of breath, palpitation and chest pain whenever he exerted himself or became nervous.

The usual examinations and cardiac tests were negative. In addition, he never had a cause for heart trouble such as rheumatic fever or coronary thrombosis.

He had been in many hospitals and clinics and we wrote asking them for their opinions. "No heart disease found" or "nervous heart trouble" were the usual replies. Comparison of our electrocardiograms with those taken 20 years ago were the same. The size and shape of his heart also were identical. If he had organic heart disease, it had not worsened over the years. We reached the same conclusion as did the others—a nervous heart.

WE CHECKED his past medical history and found that he had been an insecure lad with many emotional episodes, phobias and a nervous breakdown suggesting strong neurotic tendencies. During World War I he developed dizziness, fatigue and chest pain while on a long march. "I suspected heart trouble and was convinced when the army doctor shook his head after he listened for a long time," the patient said. He even remembered that the psysician said, "I think you have a good heart although I thought I heard a murmur at first."

This is an example of how atrogenic heart disease is brought on by the physician's mannerism, prolonged listening with the stethoscope, and facial expression. The doctor could have done this to a hundred others without producing this effect. But he was dealing with an anxious individual who was susceptible because he saw and heard all he needed to confirm his worst fears about heart disease. Twenty years later and the opinion of 50 other physicians could not convince him that his heart was normal.

IATROGENIC refers to disorders induced by physicians by autosuggestion based on his examination, manner or discussion. Other causes include misinterpretation of the electrocardiogram and laboratory tests or of what the doctor says.

Iatrogenicity is not confined to the heart. Phobias involving the stomach, mind, and other organs are similarly produced.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

PREPARING FOR WINTER

J.P. writes: Is it dangerous to sleep with an electric heating pad on the chest and a hot water bag on the feet at the same time?

REPLY

Not if the pad is turned very low so that there is no danger of being burned. Also, be careful that the hot water bag does not leak.

ARCH EXERCISE

REPLY

Yes, because they strengthen the weakened parts. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on fallen arches which describe exercises of value in certain types of arch weakness.

AGE AND DONATING BLOOD

REPLY

Yes, provided he is not an arthritic or suffering from heart trouble or extensive hardening of the arteries.

EGGS O.K.

REPLY

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Judge Immune From Lawsuits

Public officials have the duty of deciding and acting as best they can. They would be unduly hampered if a citizen could sue them for every time he disagreed with public officials. Endless intimidation would halt government.

Judges, lawmakers, and governmental executives have absolute imunity from lawsuits when they act within their official powers. Even if they acted sometimes with malice.

Other minor officials who have mere "ministerial" duties lack this protection since they merely carry out orders. Their negligence or malicious acts can make them or their employer, the government, liable for harm they do.

In a recent divorce action, the court ordered a husband to stay away from the family home. When he disobeyed the order, the judge, holding him in contempt, sent him to jail for a few days. Later when the wife was awarded most of the community property, the husband's business suffered and he went through bankruptcy.

The husband blamed the judge and tried to sue him in a federal court. The court said that the judge acted according to his best judgment. If the husband has a complaint he could appeal his case or complain about the judge to the State Judicial Qualification Commission.

The law assumes that for the most part an official acts fairly. He may be entitled to an "honest mistake." There are remedies, ways to appeal ways to remove an official.

But suits for damages are not encouraged. The district attorney who decides whether to prosecute or not, the city council that decides on a freeway route, or the city assessor who values property are as a rule free from lawsuits.

Yet in recent years the law has tended to lift some of the immunity of government officials from lawsuits. The government has been held liable increasingly for auto accidents, defective streets and sidewalks, badly run hospitals, parks, schools or other buildings.

Note: California lawyers offer his column so you may know about our laws.

Strip Development Comes To Jungle

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — About 200,000 people has settled along the edge of the highway that cuts through almost half the Brazilian interior from the capital of Brasilia to Belem at the mouth of the Amazon River since it opened to traffic in 1964.

The government agency charged with development of the Amazon Basin is now negotiating for a $50 million loan from either United States or German financial sources, to complete the highway.

Polaris Submarine To Get New Missiles

GROTON, Conn. (AP) —The Polaris submarine George Washington has received an overhaul designed to increase its striking capacity, and will leave Feb. 8 for Charleston, S.C., where it will be outfitted with missiles.

Boys Club Formation

Steps toward starting a boys club will be discussed by E. L. McKenzie of the Boys Clubs of America at a public meeting in the Novato Community House at 7:30 p.m. today, according to Joseph Bonomolo, who is urging the start of a boys club in Novato.

Hoover of 287 Crescent Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base, was graduated with honors recently from the Air Force metalsmiths course at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill. He has since been assigned to Hamilton for duty with the Continental Air Command.

TELEVISION REVIEW

After Red China A Little Comedy

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —I don't know whether you'd call it surrealistic programming for a documentary about a potential nuclear enemy to be followed up by a Danny Thomas special about Hollywood, but that's what NBC-TV offered last night. May be there's a moral somewhere.

Back to back, NBC-TV presented the hour-long productions: The first a pictorialization of what newspaper readers have long been aware —that Red China would prefer not to have tea with us —and the second a Thomas musicale with the theme of Hollywood as his home town. The plentitude of the usual maddening commercials added to the general feeling of insanity in the disabling assault on the senses. However things could have been worse: Thomas preempted Walt Disney.

Such as assault on the senses is a fair claim to mental wounding. This review being written not long after both broadcasts, I therefore maintain it has a certain amount of accuracy in assessing what must have been the effect on viewers of the wild combination of programs, being an immediate reaction rather than a distillation of the smoothed-over senses of a later writing.

The first of the programs, "The Voice of the Dragon," focused on the indoctrination of the mainland Chinese by their Communist leaders, and used the footage shot by a French camera crew that spent a good deal of time in Red China. The program illustrated how the Reds are using the Viet Nam war to heighten their propaganda against the United States, and there were vivid films of children and grownups in their anti-American demonstrations and exhortations, along with examples of indoctrination in many areas of everyday life.

I appreciated seeing the first-hand footage, but I must confess that about halfway through I suddenly got the inexplicable feeling that I was just plain tired of people hinting that I ought to be terrified of Red China, and I wouldn't be surprised if the program struck a similar chord in a lot of other persons too. I am much more terrified, frankly, by the new deductions from my pay check.

Since the intervention of the Danny Thomas musical comedy between Red China and me, I must also admit that my final impression of "The Voice of the Dragon" campares with the night surrealistic, to wit:

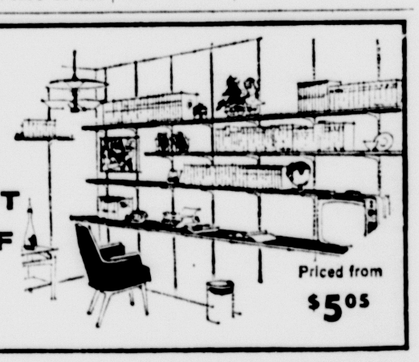

I went over to East Berlin one night to catch the opera "The Bartered Bride." And when the 200-pound Communist farm girl heroine flew into the arms of the hero, knocking him flat, I broke out laughing, earning the angry stares of Red Chinese in the row behind — except for one young Red who smiled as though in agreement. I have never forgotten the understanding in that young fellow's face.

Well, now, getting back to topics of major importance, the Thomas musical comedy used Hollywood back lots for production numbers, but unlike past occasions he settled this time for such guest stars as Sonny and Cher and Mitzi Gaynor, with only Jim Nabors as a powerhouse visitor. It was an in-and-out hour, just dreamy after Red China.

Video Antenna In Mill Valley To Be Discussed

Mill Valley City Council will take another look at a proposed community television antenna ordinance at its meeting at 8 p.m. today at City Hall.

First reading is scheduled of a new draft of the proposed ordinance, patterned after that of Sausalito. The council also is expected to discuss a suggestion by Councilman Albert E. White that the city itself should go into the television cable business.

Other items on the agenda include appointment to the parks and recreation commission and one to the architectural Advisory committee.

The council is expected to receive a report on a committee's progress in finding an architect for the Public Safety Building. The field had been narrowed to two at the last council meeting.

Waldo Is A World Apart

CHARLES HASKELL
Crab fishing

ANN QUIN
Published writer

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Waldo is a world apart.

It is a refuge for the individualist. It is a place that begins and ends at no definite boundaries. It is roughly located on the northern edge of Sausalito and somewhere south of Richardson Bay Bridge.

However, Dolly Georgetti at the Sausalito Public Library found this in the book "California Place Names": "It is quite possible that Waldo Point and Waldo Station were named after Waldo, Ore. The Oregon town was named after William Waldo who had been of service to the people of the community and who was Whig candidate for governor of California in 1853."

If you live there and don't live on a true boat, you may live on a house boat, an ark, something like the former Spreckels boat house or the former "pink houses" of Mill Valley. Waldoans design homes on water to look like the house of the old woman who lived in a shoe (the bedroom is on top of the shoe) or with a roof with a "sloop droop."

Kappas, the cocky renegade, owns about 70 acres stretching from underwater Monterey Street, near Clipper Yacht Harbor to the south, to Richardson Bay Bridge to the north. His land is stone-throwing distance from Strawberry's elegant new homes on land.

"We have about 250 berths now," said Kappas, "and plan 2,500." He has beautiful plans and claims the county is holding him back from developing. The county, on the other hand, has had troubles keeping Kappas from filling against regulation.

Kappas has installed a $25,000 sewage pumping plant which he says will handle his whole proposed development, be it floating or on solid land. The plant ties in with Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District. In addition, he has built showers and toilets for his boat people at two different locations.

Across from the Van Damme is a half-sunken white boat, La Cresta. Elsewhere in the area are more sunken or beached vessels—all part of the scene.

Short-bearded Jim Tishi lives aboard the Spreckels house, the former boathouse once located in Sausalito's Shelter Cove (Hurricane Gulch) which now has five or six apartments.

"I used to work for Lockheed in Palo Alto," said Tishi. "Right now I'm making a film. I'm a fog chaser, one who is trying to make a film on fog. I'm having such a good time I haven't even looked for a job."

Tishi was working on his small boat tied alongside the Spreckels. (This is a common thing for denizens of Waldo to live in a large stationary craft and to have a small vessel alongside in which to go fishing or boating.)

He said that he rescued the old boat, which had drifted to Strawberry in a storm, and had patched it with burlap, sheet metal, bolts and tar. "I call it Sesame Seed," he said.

"It's a good working boat. We were using it to change anchors yesterday."

Tishi, who lives with two cats, also has an old blue bike, peeling of paint, which he pulled out of the bay near his house. "One tire was still filled with air," he said.

Next door to Tishi lives British writer Ann Quin. Miss Quin has published a novel called "Berg" which she calls an experimental type of work and is in process of publishing another.

"I was born by the sea," said the attractive brunette. She said she formerly lived in San Francisco but much prefers her present abode. In winter she has to use the kitchen oven to keep warm.

Next to the Spreckels is an old Army vessel with a number and a long gangplank which bends shakily in the middle. It is the home of Vogt's Marine Specialty Service. Outside is a sign to that effect, plus "underwater inspection and repair" and a hanging flower basket filled with nasturtiums.

"I would never go back to land," says the middle-aged Mrs. Campbell who said she has lived aboard for 21 months. She fishes every day for bass when the weather is good.

Mrs. Campbell explained that she paints the whole Bay Bum once a year. One side she paints from the finger pier. Normally she paints the other side in the Campbell's small motor boat, but this year she was frightened by the sea and asked her husband to turn their home around, first cutting telephone and water lines. "I can't swim a stroke," she explained. "I'm petrified of water."

She admitted having been seasick twice in 21 months. "One night after a rough day my husband came home from work and I said 'You'll have to fix your own supper.' Afterwards I got into bed and the dog crawled right in behind me. I think he wasn't feeling too well either.

"The only trouble with living like this is once in awhile with cooking. I made a custard pie one morning. I had it in the oven 25 minutes and it was quite rough in the bay. Then I looked in the oven and, there it was, all over."

Architect Rudd Gast owns a white river boat, the Loverly. The craft has a miniature television set, electric oven with rotisserie, a one-ton air conditioner for use when going up rivers, and large picture windows looking out on San Francisco.

He tells of two men who live aboard a houseboat who everytime someone jumps off the Golden Gate Bridge give a bridge party.

Gast caught a 14-pound bass recently and made fish chowder for a dozen friends. He has tied up the Loverly at Waldo for three months.

Charles Haskell lives aboard the ark Alpha, the smart two-story house with round windows containing colored glass created by an artist. During the interview, Haskell was crab fishing at the end of the long, long Kappas pier and had just netted five.

DOWN UNDER—The boat in the foreground rests comfortably on the bottom. The houseboat floating in the background has a shape favored by many ark designers, having flaring walls. Houseboats may be purchased from houseboat-building firms with all the built-in comforts of home. Others at Waldo are do-it-yourself homes on top of gigantic barges.

PATCHWORK—Frank Russo built his ark of boards of various shades and shapes and anchored it in a quiet spot off Waldo. Nearby are other arks, one consisting of a hygienic house trailer sitting on a barge, another which looks like the old shoe from the children's tale.

OMPHALE—The huge ark which is named Omphale, in the background, has row upon row of windows in its high sloping sides. Windows of Waldo arks look out upon water, mud, gulls, other boats and Richardson Bay and the green hills around Sausalito.

ORIGINAL — Houses and houseboats at Waldo usually have an individual touch to them, reflecting their owner's or builder's whim. The neat-appearing Alpha has a leaning gangplank over mud to the front door. (Independent-Journal photos by Ellen Bry)

WINTER SUN—The rising sun casts feeble light over the long tongue of fill at Waldo Point. At this hour only the gulls are stirring on Richardson Bay.

Sanders Steals Page From Arnie's Book---CHARGE!

To be more accurate, Sanders was seven shots under par for the last nine holes.

For it was the first hole of a sudden-death playoff with Palmer that Sanders got a birdie 2 and collected the winner's $15,000.

Sanders' shot, a 15-foot putt on the 145-yard 15th hole at the Indian Wells Country Club, capped a day of dramatics in the final round of the 90-hole, five-day Hope affair.

Sanders came from six strokes back at the outset to shoot 35-31—66 over the par 36-36—72 course. In the last eight holes he had four birdies and an eagle for a 90-hole total of 349.

The playoff went to Indian Wells' par 3, 15th hole, since NBC had its television cameras there.

Sanders hit a good three-quarter 7-iron to the green, 15 feet from the cup.

"I hit a bad 8-iron," said Palmer, who went far wide to the right.

Palmer pitched back and went 14 feet past the pin.

Sanders putted in and that was it. Palmer's consolation was $8,000.

Few if any playoffs are ever started on a par 3 hole. So Sanders' two strokes, counting the difference between first and second place, were worth $3,500 apiece.

Harold (Catfish) Kneece, the people's choice and the unheralded leader through the second, third and fourth rounds, remained in the picture to the end despite a last-round 73.

The little guy from Aiken, S.C., canned a 20-foot putt on the gallery-jammed 18th for an eagle 3 and a tie for third place with a total score 350.

Casualties at the 18th were many. Rodgers' second shot buried in the mud and he hit out — into a trap — to lose any hope for the Hope.

Top Athletes Whoop It Up At Santa Rosa's Sports Banquet

NOTES 'N' QUOTES collected from the 13th annual Santa Rosa Sports Celebrity Banquet last night, attended by some 500 men and boys and 25 big name athletes at the Flamingo Hotel:

Willie Mays, in receiving the "Athlete of the Year" award—"You couldn't get Koufax here so I guess I'm the next best thing, huh? . . . Do pitchers throw at me? Well, I dunno, but SOMEBODY'S coming awfully close! Drysdale messes around a little bit. He just wants to let me know he's out there on the mound. After the game I tell him, 'Lissen, Don baby, I KNOW you is out there'."

Baltimore hurler Stu Miller: "I think we made a fine deal getting (Frank) Robinson from Cincinnati. He may put us in the World Series against the Giants. I'd love to pitch against Willie Mays." (Applause.)

Cleveland Browns star Paul Wiggin: "When I broke into pro football I thought I was pretty good size until we played the 49ers and I lined up eye-to-eye against Bob St. Clair. Then suddenly I realized it was his navel."

Cincy star Vada Pinson, when asked by Simmons if he wore dark glasses against spitball pitchers: "Dark glasses? Against Bob Shaw (Giants) I have to wear a rain coat. I KNOW Lew Burdette throws spitters. I can see the slobber dripping off the ball on the way to the plate."

Wayne Hawkins, Oakland Raiders: "I was a scrawny kid in college so they put me on this diet of mashed potatoes and marshmallows. I had this dream one night about eating these giant marshmallows and do you know that when I woke up my pillows were gone."

Heisman trophy winner Mike Garrett, looking quite ridiculous at 5-9 standing between the 6-9 Bob St. Clair and 6-7 Ben (Raiders) Davidson: "I feel kind of enemic. Coach Stram (of the Kansas City Chiefs) told me I'll be a running back and I BELIEVE him," casting nervous glances at the huge gridders all around him.

New Giant Don Landrum: "I'm a little nervous tonight. The last four years I played for the Chicago Cubs; this is the largest crowd I've played before."

Raiders' Ben Davidson, re the high salaries and bonuses paid to rookies and star backs: "Well, I drive a Volkswagen and the backs drive Cadillacs, Lincolns and Imperials . . . Mike Garrett told me when he was a boy of 13 he watched me play in college. I hope he respects my age when I play against him next season."

Coach Al Davis, Oakland Raiders: "There are 25 head coaching jobs in professional football and nine changed hands in the past year. I'm scared to death."

Cincy star hurler Jim Maloney: "With John Tsitouris and now Milt Pappas on our club, we're the only team in the majors with two Greek pitchers. Even if we don't win many games we'll have the best restaurant in the league."

Bob St. Clair, retired 49er star: "You can all rest easy. I came here tonight to officially announce I am definitely NOT coming out of retirement."

Giant Jimmy Davenport, asked about Manager Herman Franks' statements that he (Davenport) is too brittle to play regularly: "I guess that's Franks' way of telling me I'm just not good enough. Actually, I haven't had any trouble with my knee for the past couple of years."

Well, this can go on and on. And it will. If you'll tune in tomorrow we'll visit with 49ers Jack Christiansen, Dave Parks, John Brodie, Chargers' Lance Alworth, Chi Bear Jon Arnett, Olympic champ Mike Larrabee, Dodger Tommy Davis and others.

Tom Fears Named Falcon End Coach

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Tom Fears, one of the National Football League's all-time pass receivers, has been named offensive end coach for the Atlanta Falcons.

Fears, an assistant coach with the Green Bay Packers the past six years, played offensive end for the Los Angeles Rams nine seasons. His 18 catches in a single game in 1950 is still an NFL record.

He was hired Saturday by Norb Hecker, head coach to the Falcons who formerly worked with Fears for the Packers.

READY FOR WORLD CHALLENGE

Fords Score A Resounding Victory In Daytona Grind

By DUKE FERGUSON

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Perhaps for the first time in history, American automobile manufacturers are ready to seriously challenge Europeans for a little known but highly coveted championship.

The long grind over the 3.81-mile road course, consisting mostly of long straights and big banked turns, was won yesterday by Ken Miles of Santa Monica, Calif., and Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., driving a Ford Mark II prototype.

The two, one easy going relaxed Texan to whom speed is a way of life and the other, an unexcitable, soft-spoken British-born automotive engineer, drove 1,695 miles at an average speed of 108.02 miles an hour in a car that is likely to challenge European makes for the world title.

Ford dominated the first three positions and captured the fifth to almost duplicate their clean sweep here last year when the race, limited to 2,000 kilometers, lasted a little more than 12 hours.

SECOND HONORS

Fifth position was won by Bruce McLaren and Chris Amon of New Zealand in another Mark II at 652 laps, 103.91 miles an hour.

Carroll Shelby of California, a former race driver and the man behind the development of the Ford-powered entries into world competition, has his eye cocked

INTER-LEAGUE PLAY

Woeful Road Trip For Sinking Seals

BALTIMORE (AP)—The San Francisco Seas are experiencing rough going in an interlocking schedule with the American Hockey League.

Of three straight losses to AHL teams over the weekend, the Western Hockey League Seas, on a road trip, suffered their worst setback against Buffalo yesterday, 5-0. Their next game is at Baltimore Friday.

San Francisco's Jack McCartan had 27 saves, including 14 in the first period when the Bisons went scoreless. In the second period, Buffalo jumped ahead 3-0.

Billy Carter and Billy Dea each scored twice for the Bisons. Carter also set up Alain Caron for Caron's 30th goal of the season.

In a close game Saturday, Joe Szura banked a hard 15-foot shot past McCartan early in the third period to give the Cleveland Barons a 3-2 victory over the Seals.

The Seals also lost to Rochester, 5-3, on Friday.

'13' Jinx Hits Tars! Win Streak Ended

The Tars were outclassed and outplayed in Sacramento Saturday night by the American River Junior College quint, 95-80. The loss stopped Marin's streak at 13. The Tars made it to unlucky 13 but couldn't get past it.

It was a tired Marin team that traveled to Sacramento for the game, the Tars' third in four nights. After motoring to Weed for last Wednesday's game against Siskiyous, the Tars hosted Napa Friday night and then moved on to the Capitol City Saturday for the non-conference game.

Marin, playing without the services of 6-7 Fred Arnold for the second straight night, trailed throughout the game. By halftime the American River J.C. Beavers were in front 46-35.

Arnold, who suffered an ankle sprain early in Wednesday night's game against Siskiyous, sat out Saturday's action, but Marin coach Cal Riemcke said today he was fairly sure his rebounding champ would be ready for Yuba next Saturday night in Kentfield.

GOOD THINGS

"When I saw how tired my regulars were, I played my reserves and saw some good things," said Riemcke. "Rick Henika, Jeff Chapman, Kraig Kilby and Bill Pandiani did pretty good jobs and got some good experience."

Rod Monti and Don Hanson led the Marin scoring, Monti with 16 points and Hanson with 14. ARJC had a trio of hotshots, Isaac Fontaine and Gary Stevenson each meshing 25 poitns and Mike Aimes scoring 20.

"Sometimes it's good to get those winning streaks off your back," said Riemcke. It will take a lot of pressure off the Tars, who are now 15-6 overall and 6-0 in Golden Valley Conference play.

Marin's game Saturday will start the second half of GVC action. Four of Marin's six remaining conference games will be played on its home court in Kentfield.

Marin: Larry Wolfe, 2-0-4; Rod Monti, 6-4-16; Jim Halm, 4-2-10; Don Hansen, 7-0-14; Bill Pandiani, 3-1-7; Mike Menne, 2-0-4; Rick Henika, 3-2-8; Jeff Chapman, 4-1-9; Bill Brody, 2-0-4; Kraig Kilby, 1-2-4. Totals: 34-12—80.

American River: Mike Ames, 8-4-20; Isaac Fontaine, 11-3-25; Gary Garland, 3-0-6; Fred Mason, 3-3-9; Gary Stevenson, 10-5-25; Bob Kemble, 2-0-4; Greg Norris, 2-1-5; T. Battenberg, 0-1-1. Totals: 39-17—95.

Pirates' Law Wins Dapper Dan Title

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vernon Law, veteran Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher, received the Dapper Dan Award yesterday as the sports figure who did the most to publicize the Pittsburgh area during 1965.

Tribute also was paid by the Dapper Dan Club at its annual dinner to three prominent sports figures inducted into Pittsburgh's Sports Hall of Fame.

Honored for their parts in shaping the city's athetic history were Howard Harpster, Carnegie Tech's A-America quarterback in the late 1920s; Dr. J. Huber Wagner, star end of the University of Pittsburgh more than 50 years ago, and the late Glen S. (Pop) Warner, former Pitt football coach.

Serena Nears Finish, May Shatter Record

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The 83-foot Ken DeMeuse schooner Serena bore the San Francisco Yacht Club colors well into the forefront today, with a good chance of setting a record in the 1,430-mile San Diego-to-Acapulco yacht race.

The Serena, scratch boat in the 25-yacht fleet, was reported 219 miles from the finish yesterday and 10 miles ahead of the record pace of 1964, when Sirius II won in eight days, nine hours and 15 minutes.

To set a record, Serena would have to cross the finish by 9:15 tonight.

The 73-foot ketch Ticonderoga, owned by Bob Johnson of the Portland, Ore., Yacht Club, had a slim three-mile claim on second place yesterday, crowded by Jim Kilroy's Kialoa II, a 73-foot sloop from the Newport Harbor Yacht Club. The Ticonderoga was 263 miles out.

Sumner Long's Ondine, a 57-foot yawl from the Larchmont, N.Y., Yacht Club, the only East Coast entry, maintained a lead on a handicap basis. She was reported 310 miles out, well ahead of Ed Sundbergh's Sundowner, at 454 miles, holding second on a corrected time basis.

Ondine has a one-day, five-hour handicap over Serena, while Sundowner's handicap is two days and 10 hours.

The Nau III and Montgomery Street, two yachts that didn't report yesterday because of radio trouble, were both sighted by the Coast Guard cutter Dexter.

Diastole, the last boat, was reported 600 miles out, but still gunning for the finish, after her hopes were dashed by steering gear failure.

'SEND MAIL'

Unitas Tells Of Viet Nam Visit

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) —Fresh back from Viet Nam, Johnny Unitas reports this war is almost exactly like the last one in that all the boys keep saying, "Send mail."

The star quarterback of the Baltimore Colts, home only a few days from a two-week tour of 21 military camps in Viet Nam, said he found the morale and general attitude of our troops to be "tremendous and far better than you'd expect."

Everywhere Unitas went, though, along wih such other National Football League figures as Sam Huff, Frank Gifford and Willie Davis, they heard appeals for more mail from home.

"Charlston Heston, the movie actor, was over there before us and we were told about this one particular soldier who was introduced to him. The officer who introduced them tried to impress the soldier that he was meeting one of the top movie stars in the world.

WHERE'S MAIL

"'That's fine,' said the soldier, 'but where's the mail?'"

Since returning from Viet Nam, Unitas has been busy on the phone relaying messages to the parents and relatives of boys he met on the tour.

Huff, Gifford and Davis all have been doing the same thing.

"I just finished making one of those calls here in the Maryland area," said Unitas. "You have no idea what a kick it is for me to speak to the parents of these boys. Mostly, the fellows wanted me to tell their mothers and fathers that they're all right and not to worry. Once in a while the boys would ask me to deliver a personal message, too."

Unitas said it was "very warm" when he was in Viet Nam with the temperature in one of the places he was at reaching 120 degrees. Despite the heat, the troops still showed a lively interest in football.

"They asked a lot of questions," said the Colt quarterback.

"Some of them still hadn't found out who won the Green Bay-Cleveland title game and they wanted to know that. They also asked whether Don Chandler's field goal in the Green Bay-Baltimore playoff game really was good. And they wanted to know which teams we expected to be the strongest in the league next year."

VISITED HOSPITALS

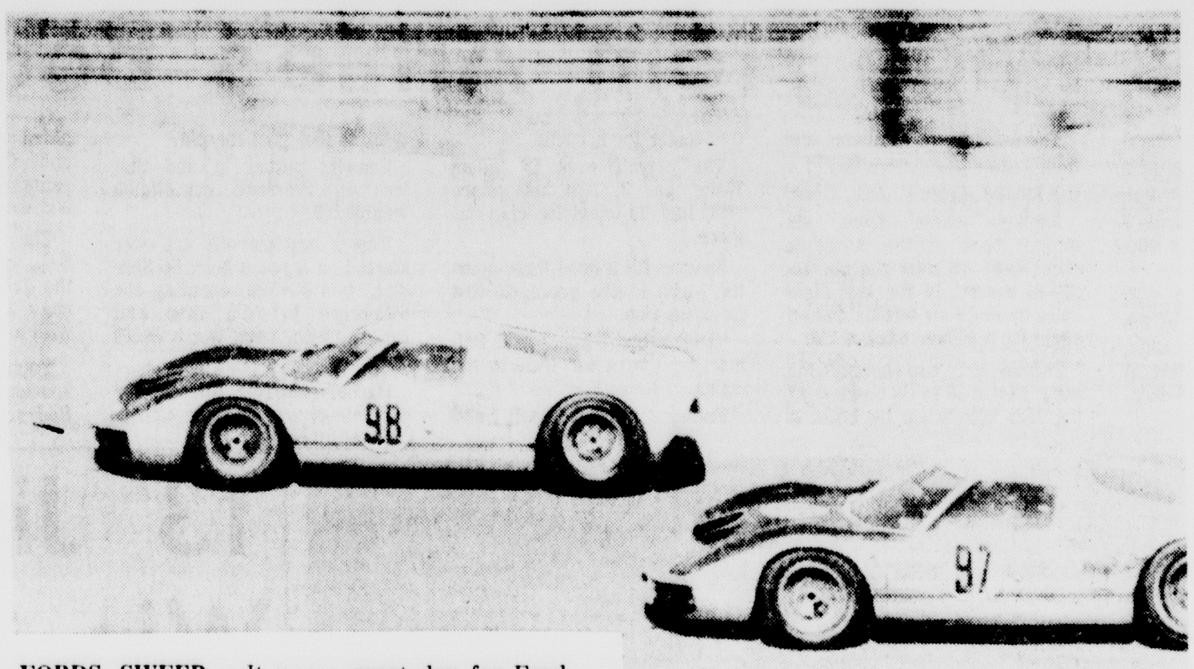

Unitas also visited some army hospitals during his Vietnamese tour and he had something in common with the patients he talked to because it wasn't so long ago that he was one himself.

He wound up finished for the season and required surgery on his right knee when a pair of Chicago Bears' linemen hit him during a game on Dec. 5.

"The leg is coming along real well and I have the full use of it again," he said. "I've been taking whirlpool and massage treatments and I'm going to start on a weight-lifting program in a few days."

It was the kind of season Unitas isn't likely to forget.

That also goes for his visit to Viet Nam.

FORDS SWEEP — It was a great day for Ford Motor Co. yesterday at the Daytona 24-hour Continental sports car race. Ken Miles and Lloyd Ruby won in Car No. 98 and Dan Gurney and Jerry Grant, co-drivers of Car No. 97, finished second. This is how the two Ford Mark 11's were at the 600-lap mark. (UPI Telephoto)

Warriors Halted By Royals In Phoenix Thriller

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Their win streak clipped at four, the San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association's Western division meet Boston, leader of the Eastern Division, here tonight.

A crowd of 10,120 watched the Warriors and the Cincinnati Royas stage the NBA inaugural for the new Veterans Memorial Coliseum in Phoenix, Ariz., last night.

The Warriors also had to watch helplessly as Oscar Roberton beat them 117-116 with two free throws only 11 seconds before the final buzzer.

The loss dropped the Warriors from second in their division to third, just two percentage points behind Batimore but tied with Baltimore in games behind division leading Los Angeles at six.

Warrior rookie Rick Barry, who tallied 43 points to lead all scorers, had put the Warriors into a 116-115 lead with two free throws, courtesy of Robertson, with 17 seconds remaining. But the veteran Big O then stole the show and the game with his pair from the free throw line.

Barry got 21 of his points in the fourth quarter and offset a scoring spree by veteran Jack Twyman of the Royals. Twyman came off the bench with his team trailing by 12 points early in the first period, erased the deficit and kept on hitting until he had 31 points.

Special N.Y. Urban Post For Jackie

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Hall of Famer Jackie Robinson will join Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's staff this week as special assistant in charge of urban affairs. The former Brooklyn Dodger star confirmed his appointment today.

The amount of salary has not yet been decided but the money definitely will not come from the state payroll, Robinson said.

"Specificially, my work will deal with urban affairs," Robinson said, "with no emphasis on civil rights or on any one particular aspect.

"We will look at the different proposals that the state will subsidize and we will try to give advice to the governor.

"The most revealing thing to me is that Gov. Rockefeller is not averse to constructive criticism. If he makes a mistake and it's pointed out to him, he will try to correct it. He knows that I won't be a yes man."

Terra Linda High Profs Rally To Nip San Rafael

Terra Linda High School's faculty basketball team scored a come-from-behind triumph over the San Rafael High teachers, 60-57, last Saturday night on San Rafael's court.

San Rafael led by as many as 17 points in the first half. After a strong rally, the Terra Linda profs got back in the game and then went ahead in the fourth quarter on buckets off the fast break.

"It seems we won the game because San Rafael tired in the fourth quarter," said Terra Linda athletic director Bill O'Bayley. A near-capacity crowd was on hand to cheer on the teachers from both schools.

Stars for Terra Linda were Don Achziger, dean of boys, and physical education teachers Bob Corley and Bob Martin. Bill Monti, varsity cage coach Mike Diaz and former basketball coach Ang Colombo were standouts for the losers.

Resounding Victory By Ford At Daytona

WORLD CIRCUIT

"We think we're ready now for Le Mans and the rest of the world circuit," which counts toward the title, said Shelby after his Daytona victory.

However, before he goes to France for the 24-hour Le Mans contest Shelby has to prove again the endurance of his car at another tough race, the 12-hour Grand Prix at Sebring, Fla., next month.

Fords took all honors at Daytona last year but were soundly beaten the following month by a dark horse, the Chevrolet-powered Chaparral built and driven by Jim Hall and Hap Sharp of Midland, Tex., at Sebring.

Then, at Le Mans, Fords failed to last the distance.

But, it is a much improved and redesigned automobile that will go to Europe this year to compete with those who have dominated international sports car racing for so many decades — especially Ferrari of Italy.

And the American Ford squad will be going with something they lacked in previous years — confidence.

"If the Fords can last 24 hours here at Daytona," said Miles, "it can last 48 hours at Le Mans, where we expect top speeds of 225 to 230 miles an hour."

Giants' Shaw Working On A New Pitch; And It's Dry, He Claims

Bob Shaw laughed when asked if he intended to join Herman Franks and an advance contingent of Giants in a pre-spring conditioning program at an Arizona spa that features mineral baths.

HANLEY

"I don't need a bath," said Shaw from his Jupiter, Fla., home where he is conducting his own conditioning program for the 1966 baseball season from a pitcher's mound in his backyard.

"Give the manager and his advance contingent my best regards. Tell them I'll see them later in Phoenix if Chub Feeney is reasonable."

What did he mean by that? Is he having contract difficulties with the vice president of the Giants?

"Oh, I wouldn't say difficulties," said the 6-2, 190 right-hander. "Let's just say we haven't reached a meeting of minds yet. I think that's the usual expression used during negotiations."

SHAW IS a shrewd negotiator. He will drag out his talks with Feeney until he has completed all necessary winter work on his orange grove and perfected a new pitch in his backyard.

"I wouldn't go so far as to say it's a new pitch for me," said Shaw. "It's an off-speed change-up that I've experimented with before. And it's dry."

SURELY, SHAW wasn't admitting indirectly that he threw a spitter last season. Or was he?

"Only my mortal enemies accused me of throwing a wet one last year," said Shaw.

Mortal enemies?

"Yes, those National League batters. They'd take the bread and butter off the table of all pitchers if they could."

FROM HIS rapid-fire answers to questions it is obvious that Shaw seldom is at a loss for words. Feeney discovered that last spring when he tried to slash Shaw's salary from $38,000 to $30,000 because of Shaw's mediocre 7-6 record in 1964.

Shaw issued a three-point communique to Feeney: 1—He had no intention of accepting a salary cut; 2—He was tired of being a relief pitcher; 3—He wanted to be a starter again.

IN SUPPORT of his first point, Shaw called attention to his 6-3 record plus five saves before the 1964 All-Star break. He soft-pedaled the fact that after the All-Star break he won only one game.

However, Shaw didn't entirely ignore his 1-3 record during the second half of the 1964 season. He cited it was considerable ingenuity. "If," said Shaw, "I had that 1-3 record during the first half and the 6-3 with five saves during the second half, I'd have gotten a raise."

FEENEY, FAILING to appreciate Shaw's logic, said "If Shaw had been 1-3 in the first half of 1964 he wouldn't have been around for the second half—he'd have been in Tacoma."

They ultimately compromised, Shaw accepted a $4,000 cut to $34,000. This year Shaw wants that cut back and more. He earned a raise last year when he proved he still could be a very effective starter with a 16-9 record and 2.64 ERA.

Marin Prep Cage Chase Gets Hotter

Drake, Redwood and Tamalpais all have won five of seven league games and it's anyone's guess who's going to win the title. Terra Linda, right behind the leaders at 4-3, can move into the title picture tomorrow with a triumph over Redwood. That game is in the T.L. gym.

In other afternoon games tomorrow, San Rafael, winless in six league games, takes on Tamalpais in the Indians' gym and Marin Catholic (2-5) is at Novato (3-4). In non-league action, Drake moves to Petaluma to take on the Trojans. All varsity games start at 4 p.m., followed by Class B games.

Meanwhile, Redwood's 6-1 guard Russ Smith is still the top scorer in the league with 120 points and a 17.1 average. Tam's Steve Johnson moved into the No. 2 spot with his 21-point performance against Novato last Friday, pushing his league average to 15.1 points per game. Novato's John Dolinsek, who scored only six points as his team was getting dumped by Tam, 57-39, fell to the number three spot with a 14.3 average.

In varsity team statistics, Redwood is tops in offense, 61.6 average per game, and Tam is in front in defense, allowing only 43.8 points per game. Five of the seven teams are on the plus side in average points scored per game, led by Tam at 6.6.

In Class B individual scoring, Tam's Pat Schafer is way out front with a 17.5 average and 123 total points. The little Indians, undefeated in league play, are boasting a 7-0 MCAL mark, two full games ahead of the pack.

Dons, Pacific In Biggie Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The University of the Pacific Tigers get their chance Saturday night to answer that oft-posed question, "Who's going to stop the San Francisco Dons from winning another West Coast Athletic Conference basketball championship?"

Both Pacific and USF are sailing along with 5-0 conference records, and both can present impressive sports page clippings to make a case for continued fortune.

For instance USF, now nationally ranked, powered past San Jose State 81-65 last Saturday night as Don center Erwin Mueller hit 31 points.

On the other hand, the balanced UOP attack got a 49 point combined effort from Keith Swagerty and Dave Fox as they squashed Loyola at Los Angeles 85-72 the same evening.

USF is rated a favorite in the showdown, but the Tigers will be operating in their own home lair. USF has a prestigious 15-2 season record, but the Tigers are clipping along at 14-3 themselves.

In other action last Saturday, St. Mary's set back Pepperdine 77-74 for the loser's 11th straight defect and UC Santa Barbara surprised Santa Clara 77-65.

Santa Barbara got 30 big points from Dick Kolberg as the Gauchos overcame a six-point Santa Clara margin in the second half. St. Mary's won it in a thriller.

Oregon State Now Favored In PAC As Bruins Stumble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three points and six seconds spell the difference today between Oregon State's league-leading 5-1 basketball record in the Pacific Athletic Conference and national champion UCLA's faded 3-2 mark.

It happened Saturday night as the eager Beavers edged the Indians at Stanford 56-54 on guard Rick Whelan's follow-up goal with one second remaining and as the Washington State Cougars surprised once mighty UCLA 84-83 on clincher free throws with five seconds left.

Oregon State, now regarded as the best bet to end UCLA's perennial lease on the PAC title, will look for a breather against lowly California next Friday night but figures on another close shave with the Indians the following evening.

Both Beaver games are on their Corvallis home court.

UCLA, which has been up but now is down on both the national ranking and PAC ladders, invades 1-4 Washington at Seattle tonight, then returns to home court comfort against 2-3 Washington State on Friday night and Washington on Saturday night.

Stanford, a surprise this year with its second best 4-2 PAC record, pays at Oregon Friday night, then plays that Beaver gang again.

Southern California, in striking distance at 3-2, plays Washington State in the Cougar den tonight, then comes home and battles Washington Friday and Washington State the following afternoon in a televised game.

That Beaver-Indian thriller ended with a final 10 minutes in which the score was deadlocked seven times. It looked like overtime was inevitable when Loy Peterson's 25-footer fell short withthe score 54-54, but Whelan grabbed the ball for a follow-up shot that went through as the buzzer sounded.

Paul Valenti's Beavers used studied ball control strategy zipping the ball back and forth before venturing a clear shot. This helped offset Stanford's overwhelming 42 - 25 rebound control.

UCLA's loss was the first to Washington State since 1959 and it came after the Cougars battled uphill from a 43-36 halftime deficit.

Marin Swim Team Loses 1966 Debut

Candy Beeler and Ben Edmands were triple winners for the Marin Pirates last Saturday but the highly-rated age group swimmers from the Ardeh Hills Swim Club of Sacramento beat the Pirates 313 to 231 in the Drake High School pool in the first meet of 1966.

Miss Beeler won the 15-17 girls 100-yard freestyle (1:02.3), 100 breast (1:15.0) and 200 individual medley (2:34.8), and Edmands won the 15-17 boys 100-yard freestyle (54.0), 100 fly (1:00.4) and 200 I.M. (2:20.6).

Double winners for the Pirates were Carolyn Hill (with a girls 9-10 pool record 31.3 in the 50-yard freestyle), Robin Bachrach (with a pool record 32.2 in 11-12 girls 50-yard fly), and Roberta Shistar (including a record 1:07.3 in 15-17 girls 100 fly).

Cancel Bobsled Meet After Racer's Death

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — For the first time in 32 world bobsled events, there will be no four-man champion this year because of the death of a West German driver.

A jury, comprised of officials of the sport, canceled the event yesterday rather than try to complete it last night or later.

Most of the competitors supported the decision, but it was denounced as "hasty and unsportsmanlike" by the organizer of the ill-fated championship.

The action stemmed from the death Saturday night of 26-year-old Anton Pensberger, whose sled missed a curve during the first run down the 1,740-meter ice chute, shot over the rim and crashed into a grove of trees.

Competition continued Saturday night until halfway through the second run when Pensberger's death, the first bobsled fatality at this Alpine resort in four years, was announced. Only nine of 17 sleds made the second run.

The other three members of Pensberger's sled were hospitalized. Brakeman Ludwig Siebert, 27, underwent surgery, and doctors said he was somewhat improved. Helmut Wurzer and Roland Eberhardt were reported out of danger.

Even before the jury met Germany, Austria, Switzerland and France said they would not continue, leaving Canada, the United States, Britain, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Romania to await the decision.

The jury, in its announcement, mentioned poor track conditions. Early in the day warm weather had opened a wide crack in one of the chute's 16 curves.

Fred Fortune of Lake Placid, N.Y., piloted the U.S. No. 1 sled in 1:16.79, and Gil Jones of Plattsburgh, N.Y., brought the No. 2 sled home in 1:16.85 on their only runs. This placed them third and fourth in the standings after one run.

Old Folks Star In Seattle Track Meet

SEATTLE (AP) — Parry O'Brien and Jim Grelle, the two pappy guys of track and field, slapped down the young upstarts who challenged them Saturday night in Seattle's second annual indoor track meet, but youth also was served when Gerry Lindgren and Lennox Miller romped to impressive triumphs.

And one other veteran—Jeff Chase — who once wore the livery of San Jose State but competed here for the Santa Clara Youth Village, soared a phenomenal 16-6¼ in the pole vault and was voted top performer of the meet.

A sellout crowd of 10,750 also saw Otis Burrell of Nevada soar 7-2 in the high jump, missing his own season's indoor best by half an inch.

Bob Day of UCLA, the NCAA mile champ who whipped Lindgren a week earlier in the two-mile at Portland, ran against Grelle in the mile. The former University of Oregon star, now galloping for Portland's Multnomah Cub, let Day set all the pace and then whipped him in the final lap.

The time was 4:02.8, slow for both runners.

Lindgren, with no Day in the field, won the two-mile in an 8:39.1 romp. The 19-year-old Washington State University sophomore lapped everybody in the seven-man field except Montana's Doug Brown, who took second despite a spill during the race when he slipped off the track's rim.

The other winning youngster was Lennox Miller of Jamaica, a Southern California freshman who took the 60-yard dash in 6.1. He beat out Wayne Hermen of San Jose State, last year's winner.

Parry O'Brien, the perpetual Olympian and a bank vice president at Pasadena when not shot-putting, pitched the iron ball 63-9 to beat Neil Steinhauer by two feet. The University of Oregon junior was here to defend the title that marked the beginning of his successful 1965 campaign to the national collegiate championship.

Chuck Smith, a Stanford entry in the pole vault, was hurt in the early stages of the event when he missed the pit and came down on a cluster of chairs. Smith was treated at a hospital for an eye cut and a hip injury, then returned to watch from the sidelines.

Harry Jerome, Canada's Olympic sprinter and co-holder of world 100 meter record, also was a spectator by circumstance. Jerome was trapped in a massive traffic jam en route to the Coliseum and arrived too late to run against Miller.

Marinite Enters Hot Rod In Roadster Show

Tim Davis, 21, of San Rafael, has entered his hand-crafted "hot-rod" in the 18th annual Grand National Roadster Show Feb. 18 through 27 in the Oakland Exposition Building.

Designed for both street use and competition, the unique vehicle is built from a 1941 Willys sedan that is now boosted into the "hot-rod" class with numerous speed accessories. The power plant is based on a 289-cubic inch Cobra engine that is linked by a four-speed transmission to a Chevrolet poitraction rear end. The car is bright orange.

More than 150 hand-crafted cars, motorcycles and power boats will compete in the national event. More than 100 awards valued at $12,000 will go to winning entries. Top award is a $5,000, nine-foot trophy said to be the world's largest loving cup.

AAU Plans Walk At Shop Center

A Pacific Assn. AAU-sponsored 15-kilometer walk around the Northgate Shopping Center in San Rafael is scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 13, starting in front of the Emporium.

The walk, roughly nine and one-half miles, is open to all persons, according to Bill Ranney, co-chairman of Pacific Assn. AAU race walking.

A 5000-meter walk for high school age participants will start at 9:30 a.m., followed by the 15-kilometer open event. Among the entrants in the open event is Mike Brodie who competed for the United States in the 1964 Olympics.

Marin TB Cases Show Increase In Last Year

Tuberculosis is on the increase in Marin County, according to statistics released by the Marin County Health Department.

New cases of the so-called "white plague" increased from 33 in 1964 to 50 in 1965, it was announced in the current issue of "Emphasis: Marin's Health," the quarterly publication of the department.

The article emphasized that services important to the prevention and control of tuberculosis are available through the health department, among them chest X-rays, skin tests, laboratory services, and chest clinics.

The quarterly, a summary of the department's activities during the past year, contains articles of nutrition and youth, sanitation, rabies control, and public health nursing.

Hemet Police Chief Arrested

HEMET (AP)—Marvin A. Clemens, chief of police in this historic farming community, must face a burglary charge Wednesday after a $7.50 shoplifting offense, the district attorneys's office said.

The 53-year-old officer, with a distinguished record dating back to service in Cleveland, is free on his own recognizance, police said.

Memorial Shelf Put In Library

A shelf of books has been established at Tamalpais High School Library in memory of Mrs. Violette Miller, secretary at the school for 10 years, who died Jan. 26.

The shelf will be made up of books on Bolinas history, since her family was descended from early Bolinas settlers.

Anyone wishing to donate books may send them to Mrs. Sidney Thompson or history teacher George Irvin. Funds may be sent to Principal Robert Prather.

Marin Supervisors To Open Hall Of Justice Bids Anew

Marin County supervisors tomorrow will again open bids on the Hall of Justice addition to Civic Center, hoping for figures substantially lower than the $9,529,000 low bid of December.

Supervisors will meet at 9 a.m. at Civic Center. Bids are to be submitted by 3 p.m. and will be opened at 4:30 p.m.

Also on tomorrow's agenda is a recommendation from County Administrator Alan Bruce for the refusal of final map clearance for the Silver Hills Subdivision, proposed south of Inverness. Both the state health department and Division of Water Resources have questioned the advisability of septic tanks in the area.

Bruce will also recommend that sanitation provisions be tightened up on tentative map approvals. Supervisors several months ago approved the tentative map for the tract. Main dispute then centered on the national park proposal to run a new road to the Point Reyes National Seashore through the property.

At 1:30 p.m., supervisors are scheduled to consider industrial zoning for approximately 1,000 acres surrounding the county airport at Novato.

They will also consider an ordinance requiring undergrounding of utilities in connection with road improvement work and an ordinance establishing stricter standards on construction of private driveways.

Weather is still the major problem in farming.

Corte Madera Creek Parks Up For Study

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission Wednesday will consider what recreation would be possible along parts of Corte Madera Creek which are to be widened in the Army Corps of Engineers flood control project.

First phase of the job, to begin in May, will call for dredging and widening from the bay to Bon Air Bridge. The second phase, to begin next year, would take the work to the Ross town line.

The park and recreation commission will meet at 2 p.m. at Civic Center.

Also on the agenda is election of officers. Chairman Gibbs H. Lawson has said he does not wish to serve another year as chairman.

The commission will discuss a new state law permitting counties to require dedication of land for parks in new subdivisions.

Scenic routes will be discussed further as will second phase development of Paradise Beach County Park on the Tiburon Peninsula.
